Buddhist Burns Himself Fatally

Saigon (AP) — A young Buddhist monk burned himself to death in Hue Sunday in protest against the Vietnam War. He left behind letters asking President Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu to work for peace.

The monk urged Nixon to "withdraw your troops from South Vietnam immediately."

Te letters are being held by Nguyen Thu Tan, chairman of the Hue University Buddhist Student Union. He said the Monk Thich Con The 27, died in "an appeal for immediate peace in Vietnam and the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces."

Doused With Gas

The held a placard saying that he would burn himself at 8:40 a.m. At exactly that time he doused himself with gasoline from an ammunition box and set himself ablaze. In death, his charred hands still clasped his prayer beads.

The acted during a Buddha's birthday procession in a different section of the old imperial capital in the north.

In his letter to "President Nixon and U.S. leaders," Thev said: "I beg you to work together to bring peace to South Vietnam. "I write this as a representative of the Vietnamese people, especially the young people of the country, to ask that you withdraw your troops from South Vietnam immediately.

Country Ruined

"After more than 20 years of war, our country has been ruined and too many of our people have died. Give us the chance to solve our own problems, to live in peace, to reunify our country.

"So now I burn myself to pray for real peace for the Vietnamese people and beg American families to demand that their sons be returned home.

"My thanks to you."

Tan said he would see that The's letters were delivered to Nixon and Thieu, to his family, and to a half-dozen other religious and peace groups.

There were reports that a Buddhist nun also burned herself to death Sunday in Cam Lo district of Quang Tri province, north of Hue, but there was no confirmation.

At Least 4 Others

At least four other monks have burned themselves to death in the past year, including another young monk who sacrificed himself "for peace" last Aug. 21 in Hue.

Suicide by public burning has long been a tactic used by Vietname's Buddhists in efforts to achieve political ends or to bring pressure on the government. A rash of dramatic self-immolations contributed to the turbulence that toppled President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime in 1963.

Some observers had believed the militant An Quang Buddhist faction, to which The's pagoda belongs, had grown too politically sophisticated to use such tactics

There is no evidence to indicate whether The's death was an isolated incident or the beginning of an attempt to influence national politics in a presidential election year Hue is the traditional power base of the Ang Quang sect.

Two Weekend Cycle Deaths Added To State's Rising Toll

The deaths of a young Lincoln man and a Geneva youth over the weekend raised the state's motorcycle fatality toll to nine in the past month and a half.

Three of the fatalities occurred in Lincoln.

LeRoy Davidson J., 22, of 3076 U, died early Sunday of injuries sustained in a car-cycle crash at 30th and S Sts late Friday.

Davidson's motorcycle, southbound on 30th, was in collision with an east-bound car driven by Stephen Price, 19, of 3145 S.

A passenger on Davidson's cycle, Leslie Clapper, 15, also of 3076 U, was listed in "good" condition at a local hospital where he was being treated for injuries suffered in the accident.

Gerald McCoy, 17, of Geneva, died of injuries suffered in a collision with a car Saturday night in Geneva.

According to the State Patrol, McCoy's motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by Patricia Portwood, 17, also of Geneva.

Another victim of a car-cycle crash, Frank Vestecka, 17, of 2917 So. 47th, was still in "critical" condition with numerous broken bones and a skull fracture.

Vestecka was injured last Tuesday when his motorcycle collided head-on at Normal and South with a car driven by Susan Stehly, 16, of 801 Hazelwood.

Motorcycle accidents — many of them involving serious injuries — have been steadily increasing over the last few years.

There have been nine deaths in the state already this year, compared to six at this point in 1970. Lincoln had only two motorcycle fatalities all last year.

Lincoln Police Lt. Mel Dorn said it has become "quite a problem, with cars stopping and not seeing motorcyclists, especially on busy residential streets."

Dorn suggested that the lack of a helmet law has been a contributing factor to the increasing toll. None of the three Lincoln motorcyclists killed this year was wearing a helmet, and each sustained severe head injuries.

This is expected to change on Wednesday, however, when Gov. J. James Exon will probably sign into law LB369, requiring the wearing of approved helmets and the licensing of all motorcycle operators.

The 1967 Legislature passed a helmet law but it was ruled unconstitutional because it failed to specify the penalty for violators.

LB369 amends the law and provides a penalty of $10 to $100 for failure to wear a helmet.

FATHER ABELE . . . enjoys trout raising experiment.

Busy Garden County Priest Raises Trout For Relaxation

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Oshkosh — What's more fun than a barrel of monkeys?

For Father Joseph Abele it's trout which he literally raises by the barrel. They're his relaxation in one of the largest parishes in the state — Garden County.

Sunday mornings mean three masses, 1½ hours apart, for the highly mobile priest Home is St. Elizabeth's Church in Oshkosh, with St. Ansgar's in Lewellen and St. Gall's in Lisco "just down old US26 a few minutes."

Sparse Area

Although the towns are relatively close they're the only ones in a sparsely settled county of over 1,700 square miles. So some of Father Abele's parishioners are a good many hills between.

"I'd hate to think of serving a city church," said the native Philadelphian. "This is hunting and fishing paradise — also a good place for afternoon snoozing after my hectic Sunday morning schedule."

At least once or twice a week, the priest drives the 15 miles to the Pat McGinley Ranch, site of his innovational hatchery. A gushing spring just above Blue Creek provides year-round water for the two vertical tanks where his trout are raised.

Only One

Possibly the only one of its type in the state, according to the priest, the hatchery is unusual from several standpoints. The vertical design and bottom-to-top water flow, for example, provide automatic self-cleaning.

Close proximity of the 3,500 rainbows is also somewhat experimental, though the idea was adapted from a successful Pennsylvania hatchery. Invaluable is the protection from predators as compared to the conventional horizontal tanks.

"Out here there is nothing to scare off animals," said the priest. "Snakes, turtles, ducks, skunks and mink — we've had 'em all. And a big old blue heron must be the worst."

Gopher Attack

Some sharp-toothed gophers severed a 900-foot electric line which did supply an automatic fish feeder. Aluminum conduit is the next planned defense.

Originated four years ago the project has grown to the point where Father Abele has sold a few trout as stockers. But he has no illusions that the hobby will ever be a moneymaker.

"I just do this because I love fish and fishing," he grinned. "Only now the raising of trout takes so much time that I don't get around to catching them."

Darmstadt, West Germany (UPI) — After more than 29 years of publication at 5 cents a copy, the unofficial U.S. Army newspaper Stars and Stripes now costs a nickel more for the European edition. Since its first issue April 18, 1942, the paper has cost 5 cents daily and 10 cents Sundays. The price change, effected because of higher costs, will not affect the Sunday edition.

Inflation Is Blamed On Glut Of Dollars

. . . OTHER NATIONS MAY FOLLOW

By The Associated Press

Four of West Europe's strong-currency nations, plagued by domestic inflation they blame on a glut of U.S. dollars, acted Sunday to make their money worth more in comparison with American currency. Switzerland's finance minister said American "easy money policy" has created inflation throughout the world.

Switzerland revalued its franc upward by 70%, the strongest move against the dollar, making a dollar worth 4.08 francs instead of 4.37.

Austria boosted its schilling by 5.05%, which means a dollar now will buy only 24.75 schillings compared with 26 previously.

West Germany's cabinet decided to float the mark on world markets, which is expected to make it worth more in relation to the dollar. The parity rate now is 3 66, but trading closed last week at 3.55.

Netherlands Follows

The Netherlands followed the West German lead, deciding to let the guilder float. The Belgium Cabinet set a meeting for Monday to decide its course. Luxembourg automatically would go along with any Belgian decision because the two countries are tied.

France and Italy, however, said they were not interested in floating their currencies because they have no dollar problems. French and Italian currencies closed unchanged last week against the dollar—the franc at 5.2125 and the lira at 625

The five nations, with West Germany, make up the European Common Market. A marathon meeting of Common Market finance ministers Saturday night and Sunday in Brussels gave member nations permission to let their currencies float and reach their true value.

Britain said it would stand pat because the pound sterling is "not directy involved" in the international currency crisis, which began last week when speculation about a mark revaluation similar to that in 1969 sparked massive selling of American currency.

Pound Unchanged

A British spokesman said the pound would continue to be pegged at its value of $2.40 and the levels at which the British government will intervene to maintain the rate would remain at $2.42 and $2.38. The pound closed last week just short of $2.42.

The confused situation caused the Turkish Finance Ministry to suspend all foreign exchange dealings except for small amounts for tourists in Turkey and for Turks traveling abroad.

There was no immediate official reaction in Washington

In New York, Eugene Birnbaum of Chase Manhattan Bank said it would take "a little while for the mark to settle down, but we will be able to establish a future market."

A Swiss government communique said the decision to revalue was reached after the Swiss National Bank absorbed about $1.5 billion in recent days, fueling an inflation that already was running at 5.9% for the past 12 months.

"If we had not done anything, the consequences for our economy would have been devastating," Finance Minister Nello Cellio told a news conference. "With their easy money policy the Americans have created sources of inflation throughout the world."

The decision to allow the mark to float is aimed at stopping the inflow of foreign currency into West Germany — which reached $2 billion in two days during frenzied mark-buying last week — and at halting domestic price rises.

Dollar Is Keystone

International money people worry about the dollar more than other currencies because it is the keystone of the international monetary system.

Concern about it began to mount at the end of the 1950s as the United States continued to have a balance of payments deficit — more dollars going abroad than coming back.

Among the causes were more imports from the rejuvenated economies of Europe and Japan, billions spent abroad on defense and foreign aid, and a flood of American tourists crossing the Atlantic.

A protracted balance of payments deficit increases the supply of a nation's currency abroad until demand for it declines. Unless action is taken its value also can drop, like that of any surplus product.

The U.S. military and government acted to cut foreign expenditures and acted to cut foreign expenditures and increase exports in the early 1960s. But by 1966-67 heavy military spending in Southeast Asia and domestic inflation that increased demand for foreign goods pushed the payments deficit up, laying the groundwork for the current crisis.

Freedom Seen For Mindszenty

Paris (AP) — Pope Paul VI has reached agreement "in principle" with the Hungarian Communist government to relieve Joszek Cardinal Mindzenty of his post as Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, the mass-circulation weekly L'Express reported Sunday.

Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment for alleged treason by a Communist court in 1949. During the 1956 uprising, he sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest, where he has been ever since.

L'Express said Pope Paul reached agreement on the 79-year-old cardinal's future with Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter, a former protestant pastor. The agreement, it said, provides for Cardinal Mindszenty's removal as titular head of the Hungarian church with the government allowing him to leave the embassy and go quietly into retirement.

Lincoln Cab Owner Testing Propane To Curb Pollution

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

The owner of Lincoln's taxicabs is concerned with air pollution and he is trying to do something about it with propane gas.

Two taxicabs, owned by Barry Strube of Yellow and Capital Cab Cos., now run completely on clean-burning propane gas and by June there will be two more.

And if the use of propane instead of gasoline continues to be successful, Strube said 12 of his 60 taxis might be using propane by fall

"The nation has a big ecology problem," Strube said, "and our thinking is that those of us who drive all the time as a business need to do something about it. Someone has to start somewhere."

Strube noted that propane gas burns clearner and eliminates most of the hydrocarbon emission which comes from the exhaust of gasoline engines.

He said as far as he knows, his taxis are the only ones in this area now experimenting with propane gas.

Beatrice cabs once tried to use propane, he explained, but "they had lots of trouble and since then propane has been perfected considerably."

Pollution is not the only reason Strube favors the approximately 35-gallon propane tanks which now sit in the trunks of two of his Yellow Cabs.

He explained that propane also cuts down on maintenance costs since less carbon builds up on the sparkplugs and the oil needs changing less often.

Normally, taxis need an oil change every 3,000 miles, but he said recent tests show that the oil in his propane-run cabs is still 90% pure after 10,000 miles.

The same thing goes for sparkplugs which he said "looked like brand new" after 10,000 miles in the propane-powered cabs.

Strube said the propane-run taxis also start easier and accelerate quicker than those that use gasoline.

STAR PHOTO

He did point out, however, that switching to propane is costly and since propane is bought in smaller quantities than gasoline, it costs about 2.25 cents more per gallon.

The mileage of the propane cabs is between 9.5 and 10 miles per gallon as compared to about 10.5 miles per gallon for gasoline, he said.

Propane tanks cost about $180 and the complete conversion to propane comes to around $300.

Strube's propane-run taxis are completely converted and can not run on gasoline. He explained that unlike earlier propane models, his cabs have special fuel regulation systems which include propane carburetors.

West European Countries Revalue Currencies

(c) New York Times News Service

Bonn — Five West European nations, led by West Germany, announced either the upvaluing of their currencies or the "floating" of their currencies against the fixed price of the dollar. The aim in all five countries — West Germany, Switzerland, Belguim, The Netherlands and Austria — was an upward currency movement to shovel out excess dollars and help fight inflation. (More on Page 1.)

Deutche Mark Is Freed

Bonn — The deutsche mark, the West Germany currency, was freed somewhat from its fixed value. And will be allowed to "float" between undisclosed boundaries. Some other monetary controls and reforms were also approved. Experts said that the villain in the recent monetary crisis in Europe was the vast and somewhat mysterious Eurodollar market. (More on Page 1.)

Truce Violations Charged

Saigon — American and South Vietnamese military spokesmen accused the enemy of having violated the one-day allied truce to honor Buddha's birthday 51 times. One violation was said to be the mining of a ferry boat that took the lives of 36 civilians. The enemy's two-day truce is to end today. (More on Page 7.)

Bunker May Come Home

Saigon — The expectation was that United States Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who celebrates his 77th birthday Monday and who has just completed four years in America's most crucial diplomatic post, would leave shortly after the South Vietnamese presidential elections in October. Bunker, in an interview, said that he was sure the war would end "reasonably well" if we had "the patience and the will."

Crash Investigation Begun

Cape Kennedy, Fla. — Engineers and rocket specialists at the national space agency began an investigation into the failure of the Mariner 8 mission shortly after its launch Saturday night and announced plans for the launching of another Mariner on May 18. The goal of the mission is to orbit Mars. (More on Page 7.)

War Authority Bill Eyed

Washington — Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee and a strong backer of the Vietnam policies of Presidents Johnson and Nixon, said he would introduce a bill prohibiting a president from committing American troops to another extended war without congressional approval. (More on Page 9.)

Nixon Reported Politicking

Washington — President Nixon was reported to have channeled more of his time recently to the political aspects of his re-election campaign next year. He has been addressing himself more frequently to the constituency — farmers, businessmen, southerners, law and order advocates and some ethnic groups — that elected him in 1968. And a skeleton campaign operation has been established in an office on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Democrats Attracting Young

Washington — The first evidence was said to suggest that the Democrats were attracting more of the new voters who will be between 18 and 21 years old in 1972 than the Republicans. Both parties have begun efforts to recruit the young voters, newly enfranchised by the Voting Rights Act of 1970.

Fertilizer Works Like 'Regular Meal'

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The art of fertilizing a crop has progressed a long way since the days of collecting cow chips for the family garden plot.

Now plants are fed on a regular basis instead of one-shot application in the spring or by side dressing.

"What we are doing is setting a regular meal for the corn crop instead of laying in the year's food supply at one shot," said Paul E. Fischbach, extension irrigationist at the University of Nebraska.

Part of the field is fertilized in the conventional way and the rest is a series of pie-shaped plots fertilized and treated with a sprinkler system.

"We put on enough water to soak the ground to the 4- to 6-inch depth to meet the immediate needs of the plants. This keeps the fertilizer from leaching out of reach of the plants and keeps it out of the ground water," Fischbach said.

Frequent Irrigating

He irrigates the field every few days depending on the amount of rainfall.

The field's plots make apparent the different methods of applying fertilizer and herbicides and the degree of flexibility offered by a central pivot sprinkler system.

Ronald Volk, a graduate student who is using the project to write his thesis, said, "It is really pretty simple once you get the math worked out. A slide rule comes in mighty handy."

Series Of Tables

Fischbach has prepared a booklet outlining the procedure and supplying a series of tables to help with the calculating.

First, a soil test is taken to determine the needs of the soil and then the requirements of the plants at various stages of growth must be determined.

Other calculations involve the pipe sizes, the amount of pressure in the system and the amount needed to overcome the water pressure to inject the fertilizer and chemicals into the water

Safety Devices

A series of pressure valves and safety devices are part of the system. Safety devices prevent water from backing up into the fertilizer and chemical tanks and prevent the chemicals from getting into the well.

Electronic switches will stop everything if any part of the system malfunctions or loses pressure.

"The way we have it set up, the system is foolproof," Fischbach said.

"We had the equipment stored during the winter and we had a few mouse nests to clean out, but generally it has worked quite well," Volk noted.

The booklet on fertilizing with irrigation water (E.C. 71-792), prepared by Fischbach, is available at county extension offices or by writing to the department of agriculture engineering at the University of Nebraska.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

President Nixon's "Salute to Agriculture" was pleasing to farmers and farm leaders, but by itself it won't solve any problems.

Costello

The President said in his speech that a very real part of the problem is inflation which hits the farmer especially hard because of his huge expenses.

Last week parity dropped back to the 69% level, which is just a shade above the 37-year low, and prices continue to rise on items that a farmer has to buy.

Farm production costs have climbed 15% in the last four years. Another set of figures suggests that the cost of operating a farm plus living expenses actually is up 19%.

The same authority indicates that farmers are 93% as well off on the average as they were in 1967.

Unless the President can find a way to solve the financial problems of agriculture, the "Salute to Agriculture" will not gain him many farm votes in the coming election

I recently visited with a farmer who does most of his farming with five mules. Watching him disc stalks quietly and peacefully, was quite a contrast to today's common way of farming.

There was a minimum of dust and very little noise, and he obviously was enjoying himself because he likes mules.

I wonder what the economics of horse power would be today in an age of what seems to be oversized and overpowered machines.

If we could find a farmer who farms entirely with animal power and an economist willing to study the situation, it could be the story of the year.

The bug eggs, which these insects eat while being raised, normally cost $300 a pound, but the homemade kind are approximately $5 a pound.

The reason scientists like to raise these insects is that when they are put in a tobacco or cotton field, they will eat bollworms and budworms.

Since aphid lions are resistant to a number of pesticides, it is hoped they can be used along with sprays to get rid of the harmful bollworms and budworms.

It is all part of the war on pollution. The cost of using the aphid lion alone is still much higher than the sprays.

Attache Describes Low Incomes Of Farmers In Common Market

Farmers' incomes in many of the Common Market countries are at 40% parity with city incomes, according to Gerard J. M. Braks.

Braks, the Netherland's agricultural attache to the Common Market in Brussels, Belgium, is in Nebraska looking at agricultural production, marketing and education.

He noted that when considering the European farmers' low parity, "you have to remember our entire standard of living is below yours."

Farm Demonstrators

"The farmers who demonstrated by driving their tractors into Brussels gained the sympathy of the residents of Brussels up to the time the rioting began and then the sympathy vanished," he said.

"It was the first time the farmers of the entire community acted together," he explained, "rather than acting in national groups so something may have been gained for the Common Market from that standpoint."

Braks indicated that there had been plans to raise the farmers' income, anyway, and the riot had little to do with the price-raise.

Surplus Disappearing

He also said the butter surplus in Europe is disappearing, due in part to dry weather and an increase in the people's income.

"With more income, you have people eating in restaurants which serve butter so our consumption has increased," he said. "We did give some to institutions and sell some to low income people at low rates. These programs are now ended and we may be buying butter on the world market."

Retirement Efforts

About 17% of the population is still engaged in production agriculture, however, it varys from 6% in The Netherlands to nearly half of the population in parts of Italy.

Efforts are being made to retire some of the older farmers and to combine the small farms into more efficient operations.

"It is a people problem and an economic problem at the same time," he said.

Conversion Program

Braks said a program converting dairy farmers into beef producers was successful because many were not happy milking cows seven days a week.

"We think these people will stay out of milking and we will need more beef anyway. Most of our calves are raised as veal which makes calves too expensive to buy for finishing as grain-fed beef," he said.

Braks said the calves were raised on an artificial milk replacer in the veal production program.

During his stay in Lincoln, Braks visited the University of Nebraska, the State Capitol, the Department of Agriculture and the Legislature.

Curtis Introduces Vehicle Measure Affecting Farms

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb, has introduced legislation that would prevent the Department of Transportation from prohibiting drivers under 21 to operate farm vehicles on highways.

Similar legislation has been introduced in the House.

Curtis said the department was "wrongfully and unwisely usurping the power to say who can drive a vehicle on our highways." He said states should have that authority

Legislators Pass Bill Liberalizing Marijuana Laws

Albany — A bill which sharply reduces the penalties for possession and sale of marijuana was passed overwhelmingly by the Senate here.

The bill, which passed by a vote of 34 to 6 after almost two hours of debate, reduces the penalty for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana from a Class D felony, with a maximum sentence of seven years, to a Class B misdemeanor, with a three-month maximum sentence.

Penalties for possession of between one and eight ounces are also reduced from a Class C felony, with a maximum sentence of 15 years, to a Class A misdemeanor, with a maximum sentence of one year.

In both instances, as well as in the case of a person who gives less than a quarter ounce of the drug to a friend, the judge may at his discretion impose no sentence.

Attache Describes Low Incomes Of Farmers In Common Market

Farmers' incomes in many of the Common Market countries are at 40% parity with city incomes, according to Gerard J. M. Braks.

Braks, the Netherland's agricultural attache to the Common Market in Brussels, Belgium, is in Nebraska looking at agricultural production, marketing and education.

He noted that when considering the European farmers' low parity, "you have to remember our entire standard of living is below yours."

Curtis Introduces Vehicle Measure Affecting Farms

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., has introduced legislation that would prevent the Department of Transportation from prohibiting drivers under 21 to operate farm vehicles on highways.

Similar legislation has been introduced in the House.

The department had announced the new regulation would be effective last Jan. 1, but postponed the date to July 1.

Curtis said the department was "wrongfully and unwisely usurping the power to say who can drive a vehicle on our highways." He said states should have that authority.

Legislators Pass Bill Liberalizing Marijuana Laws

The New York Times

Albany — A bill which sharply reduces the penalties for possession and sale of marijuana was passed overwhelmingly by the Senate here.

The bill, which passed by a vote of 34 to 6 after almost two hours of debate, reduces the penalty for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana from a Class D felony, with a maximum sentence of seven years, to a Class B misdemeanor, with a three-month maximum sentence.

Penalties for possession of between one and eight ounces are also reduced from a Class C felony, with a maximum sentence of 15 years, to a Class A misdemeanor, with a maximum sentence of one year.

In both instances, as well as in the case of a person who gives less than a quarter ounce of the drug to a friend, the judge may at his discretion impose no sentence.

Ord School Points Out Education Can Be Fun

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Ord — The new $795,000 Ord Elementary School is the fruit of Public Schools Superintendent Dr. William Gogan's conviction that the learning process doesn't have to be drudgery to be effective.

Made possible by a bond election in which Ord voters gave Gogan and his innovative educational philosophy a vote of confidence, the school opened in November and was dedicated earlier this month. It features an open-space learning area for all grades, centered around a media "library" which makes learning available to students via film, educational television, stereo, radio, filmstrip, and tape recorder as well as the printed page.

"You have to recognize the fact that youngsters are individuals with different capabilities," Dr. Gogan says. Consequently the emphasis is on individualized instruction: the school strives for a 50-50 division between individual learning and traditional group instruction. Competition and the external incentive of grades are downplayed as much as possible in favor of self-motivation.

Students in a given grade study the same subject during the same study period, but each progresses at his own rate, Gogan said, enhancing the incentive to learn and avoiding the anxiety and despair experienced by children who fail repeatedly when placed in direct competition with others. "One F won't ruin a child," Gogan says, "but a lot of F's will."

Individual Projects

Individual study projects are an important part of the school's curriculum, Gogan says, because they reinforce the children's inner desire to learn. The kids volunteer for individual projects, signing a "contract" which tells what they plan to learn; and eventually give a class presentation when they are through. "For a long time we educators) stymied youngsters," Gogan says, "but now they're able to do things they really want to do."

Bright children often do more than they have to, as a result, and even slow learners respond with enthusiasm ers respond with enthusiasm achievement from a slower child is a triumph. "Even if he doesn't do anything, what was he doing when we were trying to teach him in a whole class? Nothing. He was tuning us out completely. Some will never overcome their obstacles, but most overcome them better than in the old system."

The open arrangement of the learning area encourages students to aid each other with difficulties, Dr. Gogan says. "You'll see one get up and go over to another for help. We used to call that cheating, but we've found that children relate best to other children."

Teacher Teams

Teachers also work together in "teacher teams" of two or four, intended to encourage a stimulating exchange of ideas and reduce the pupil-teacher ratio, giving students access to more teachers. Teacher aides are hired at an hourly wage to assist with the duties, and "cadets" are enlisted from among the fifth- and sixth-grade students to help the younger children with their reading and arithmetic.

Despite the innovations in procedure, Gogan's school is anything but a den of anarchy. "We don't just let them do what they want," he says. "We're aware of where everyone is at any time."

Grades are still used, but mainly to help the teachers keep track of students' progress, rather than to motivate learning through competition or the fear of failure. Children are occasionally held back a grade if they simply do not respond, but "only as a last resort," Dr. Gogan says. "There's not usually too much to gain from holding a youngster back."

Special facilities include a "Little Theatre" with sunken, carpeted seating, for productions for both students and parents; a recessed-seating music room; a gym and locker rooms; a faculty workroom and lounge; a separate kindergarten room; seminar areas for science, art, reading and speech therapy; a kitchen; and an arboretum or "outdoor laboratory."

Media Library

The frosting on the cake, however, is the ultra-modern "media library," around which the entire school is organized. Portable headsets pick up sound transmissions from the teacher's voice, film, videotape, recorded tape, educational TV, or records, via under-the-carpet electric looping; meanwhile the students watch the visual portion of the presentation on either of two closed-circuit television screens.

wheelock

Less elaborate electronic devices are used for all kinds of teaching purposes. Ten cassette tape recorders, for example, can be taken home by students who want to listen to recorded stories or get help with their schoolwork on their own time. Dr. Gogan notes that none of the recorders has ever been lost or damaged.

A full-time media specialist and librarian, Mrs. Dorothy Manning, is employed to oversee the use of the media resources. A television and audio-visual man is shared with Ord High School.

Gogan, who assumed the duties of superintendent three years ago, is no stranger to Ord, having spent the first 11 years of his career teaching and coaching at Ord High.

He brought his views on open-space, individualized schools from the school system in Jefferson County, Colorado, where "open-space schools are the only kind they're building any more."

Not New

The open-space school is not a new concept, Dr. Gogan says, noting that the first one to gain national publicity was in Carson City, Mich., about 14 years ago. "Nebraska has been kind of slow" in picking up the new system, however. Millard is the only other town in the state with a completely open-space school, although several others have open-space facilities for special uses.

"We know we're doing as good a job or better than we used to do in the old 'egg-crate' type schools," Dr. Gogan says, "and the kids are having fun doing it." Two key attitudes are essential in making learning enjoyable and stimulating, he explains. First, the school emphasizes the positive, commending the kids for good work, and even calling parents to school to show them the things their children have done well.

Second, the school allows each child to "succeed in his own way," Dr. Gogan says. "There's nothing like success — they just want to do more and more."

'Outsiders' Will Be Offered Inside View Of Prison Life

By BILL EUTZY
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Delegates and guests attending the 1971 Nebraka State Jaycee Convention here Friday through Sunday at the Omaha Hilton will be given an opportunity to take a first-hand look at prison life.

A model prison cell — patterned after the facilities at the Nebraska Penal Complex — will be set up and manned by members of the Seward Jaycees as part of Project CASH.

Project CASH (Checks Anonymous Sends Help) originated with the Checks Anonymous group at the Nebraska penitentiary, an inmate group formed "to combat the rise in criminal offenses involving checks, be it forgery, insufficient funds, possession of a forged instrument, or whatever."

Public Awareness Effort

The project itself evolved as a public awareness effort to "point out the consequences that may result from neglect or transgression of existing laws."

A package was put together which includes a poster depicting the consequences of "bad" checks, a booklet of personal experiences by men behind walls and a cover letter explaining the role of Checks Anonymous.

Currently, Brandeis, Safeway and several major oil companies, as well as many local merchants in communities across the state are utilizing the packets to combat check offenses.

Brandeis, which sends out a packet with their second request for payment of an insufficient fund check, reports a marked decrease in the necessity of sending out a third reminder, or the subsequent referral to their legal department.

Another inmate group, the One-Eleven Jaycees, have undertaken the project of distributing the packets across the state.

The packets will be available at the cell-type booth during the convention. The display will also feature tape-recorded messages from members of CA.

The Seward Jaycees became interested in the project while attending a meeting of the One-Eleven chapter, and offered to transport and man the booth during the convention.

Jim Garber, of the Seward chapter, said that if the response is favorable in Omaha, plans will be made to take the model to the U.S. Jaycee National Convention next year.

Ralph Katzberg Resigns Ag Post

Hastings (AP) — A man who served as executive director of the Adams County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office for 21 years, Ralph Katzberg, has resigned.

He said he had no definite plans for the future.

Katzberg said during his tenure he had seen farm prices go from a wartime high to some of the lowest in history in terms of buying power, and the small farm largely replaced by large units.

He noted, too, that irrigation has replaced much of the dryland farming in Adams County, and that crop production has more than doubled since irrigation came in.

Volunteer Renovates Defunct Church Organ

Omaha (AP) — George Rice likes a challenge, especially when it involves restoring an old organ, built in the 1880s.

By working several nights a week and on Saturday, the researcher at Creighton University has put the tubular pneumatic organ at Primm Chapel AME Church into working order.

The Rev. John Orduna said he learned the cost to have the organ fixed would be $5,000 and the congregation couldn't afford it.

'Going To Junk It'

"We were going to junk it and leave up the pipes for effect," he said.

Then the pastor heard of the organ buff, Rice.

"We gave him a key to the church so he could work when he wanted to," the Rev. Mr. Orduna said. "He accepted no pay, not even for the parts he purchased."

Last Sunday, the church celebrated its tenth anniversary in a building which had housed another church in 1902. Rice seated himself at the organ and began a prelude from Handel's Messiah.

More Work Needed

He played other selections, too, as the congregation listened attentively.

Rice said it would take at least 1,000 more hours to put the organ in excellent condition.

The Rev. Orduna called Rice's efforts "Simply beautiful," adding: "He does it for the sheer joy of helping. He's such a beautiful man.

"When we see this kind of dedication, it strengthens our faith in God to work through people."

"For a long time we educators) stymied youngsters," Gogan says, "but now they're able to do things they really want to do."

Bright children often do more than they have to, as a result, and even slow learnners respond with enthusiasm ers respond with enthusiasm achievement from a slower child is a triumph. "Even if he doesn't do anything, what was he doing when we were trying to teach him in a whole class? Nothing. He was tuning us out completely. Some will never overcome their obstacles, but most overcome them better than in the old system."

The open arrangement of the learning area encourages students to aid each other with difficulties, Dr. Gogan says. "You'll see one get up and go over to another for help. We used to call that cheating, but we've found that children relate best to other children."

Teacher Teams

Teachers also work together in "teacher teams" of two or four, intended to encourage a stimulating exchange of ideas and reduce the pupil-teacher ratio, giving students access to more teachers. Teacher aides are hired at an hourly wage to assist with the duties, and "cadets" are enlisted from among the fifth- and sixth-grade students to help the younger children with their reading and arithmetic.

Despite the innovations in procedure, Gogan's school is anything but a den of anarchy. "We don't just let them do what they want," he says. "We're aware of where everyone is at any time."

Grades are still used, but mainly to help the teachers keep track of students' progress, rather than to motivate learning through competition or the fear of failure. Children are occasionally held back a grade if they simply do not respond, but "only as a last resort," Dr. Gogan says. "There's not usually too much to gain from holding a youngster back."

Special facilities include a "Little Theatre" with sunken, carpeted seating, for productions for both students and parents; a recessed-seating music room; a gym and locker rooms; a faculty workroom and lounge; a separate kindergarten room; seminar areas for science, art, reading and speech therapy; a kitchen; and an arboretum or "outdoor laboratory."

Media Library

The frosting on the cake, however, is the ultra-modern "media library," around which the entire school is organized. Portable headsets pick up sound transmissions from the teacher's voice, film, videotape, recorded tape, educational TV, or records, via under-the-carpet electric looping; meanwhile the students watch the visual portion of the presentation on either of two closed-circuit television screens.

wheelock

Less elaborate electronic devices are used for all kinds of teaching purposes. Ten cassette tape recorders, for example, can be taken home by students who want to listen to recorded stories or get help with their schoolwork on their own time. Dr. Gogan notes that none of the recorders has ever been lost or damaged.

A full-time media specialist and librarian, Mrs. Dorothy Manning, is employed to oversee the use of the media resources. A television and audio-visual man is shared with Ord High School.

Gogan, who assumed the duties of superintendent three years ago, is no stranger to Ord, having spent the first 11 years of his career teaching and coaching at Ord High.

He brought his views on open-space, individualized schools from the school system in Jefferson County, Colorado, where "open-space schools are the only kind they're building any more."

Not New

The open-space school is not a new concept, Dr. Gogan says, noting that the first one to gain national publicity was in Carson City, Mich., about 14 years ago. "Nebraska has been kind of slow" in picking up the new system, however. Millard is the only other town in the state with a completely open-space school, although several others have open-space facilities for special uses.

"We know we're doing as good a job or better than we used to do in the old 'egg-crate' type schools," Dr. Gogan says, "and the kids are having fun doing it." Two key attitudes are essential in making learning enjoyable and stimulating, he explains. First, the school emphasizes the positive, commending the kids for good work, and even calling parents to school to show them the things their children have done well.

Second, the school allows each child to "succeed in his own way," Dr. Gogan says. "There's nothing like success — they just want to do more and more."

'Outsiders' Will Be Offered Inside View Of Prison Life

By BILL EUTZY
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Delegates and guests attending the 1971 Nebraka State Jaycee Convention here Friday through Sunday at the Omaha Hilton will be given an opportunity to take a first-hand look at prison life.

A model prison cell — patterned after the facilities at the Nebraska Penal Complex — will be set up and manned by members of the Seward Jaycees as part of Project CASH.

Project CASH (Checks Anonymous Sends Help) originated with the Checks Anonymous group at the Nebraska penitentiary, an inmate group formed "to combat the rise in criminal offenses involving checks, be it forgery, insufficient funds, possession of a forged instrument, or whatever."

Public Awareness Effort

The project itself evolved as a public awareness effort to "point out the consequences that may result from neglect or transgression of existing laws."

A package was put together which includes a poster depicting the consequences of "bad" checks, a booklet of personal experiences by men behind walls and a cover letter explaining the role of Checks Anonymous.

Currently, Brandeis, Safeway and several major oil companies, as well as many local merchants in communities across the state are utilizing the packets to combat check offenses.

Brandeis, which sends out a packet with their second request for payment of an insufficient fund check, reports a marked decrease in the necessity of sending out a third reminder, or the subsequent referral to their legal department.

Another inmate group, the One-Eleven Jaycees, have undertaken the project of distributing the packets across the state.

The packets will be available at the cell-type booth during the convention. The display will also feature tape-recorded messages from members of CA.

The Seward Jaycees became interested in the project while attending a meeting of the One-Eleven chapter, and offered to transport and man the booth during the convention.

Jim Garber, of the Seward chapter, said that if the response is favorable in Omaha, plans will be made to take the model to the U.S. Jaycee National Convention next year.

Volunteer Renovates Defunct Church Organ

By working several nights a week and on Saturday, the researcher at Creighton University has put the tubular pneumatic organ at Primm Chapel AME Church into working order.

The Rev. John Orduna said he learned the cost to have the organ fixed would be $5,000 and the congregation couldn't afford it.

'Going To Junk It'

"We were going to junk it and leave up the pipes for effect," he said.

Then the pastor heard of the organ buff, Rice.

"We gave him a key to the church so he could work when he wanted to," the Rev. Mr. Orduna said. "He accepted no pay, not even for the parts he purchased."

Last Sunday, the church celebrated its tenth anniversary in a building which had housed another church in 1902. Rice seated himself at the organ and began a prelude from Handel's Messiah.

More Work Needed

He played other selections, too, as the congregation listened attentively.

Rice said it would take at least 1,000 more hours to put the organ in excellent condition.

The Rev. Orduna called Rice's efforts "Simply beautiful," adding: "He does it for the sheer joy of helping. He's such a beautiful man.

"When we see this kind of dedication, it strengthens our faith in God to work through people."

He was also the attending orthopedist at the U.S. Veterans Hospital.

He served in the medical corps in the U.S. Army from July, 1942, until February, 1945 and had the rank of major.

Dr. Teal was a member of several medical organizations, including the Lancaster County Medical Society, the Nebraska State Medical Association, the American Medical Association, the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, the Association of Bone and Joint Surgeons and served as a Diplomat of the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery.

He was a member of Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity, Nu Sigma Nu and Alpha Omega Alpha. He was a member of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, as well as the Lincoln University Club, the Lincoln Country Club and Westminister Presbyterian Church.

Ralph Katzberg Resigns Ag Post

Hastings (AP) — A man who served as executive director of the Adams County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office for 21 years, Ralph Katzberg, has resigned.

He said he had no definite plans for the future.

Katzberg said during his tenure he had seen farm prices go from a wartime high to some of the lowest in history in terms of buying power, and the small farm largely replaced by large units.

He noted, too, that irrigation has replaced much of the dryland farming in Adams County, and that crop production has more than doubled since irrigation came in.

Actress Marries

Stockholm (UPI) — Award winning Swedish actress Pia Degermark married West German millionaire Prince Pier Caminecci in a ceremony attended by 250 guests. Miss Degermark, 21, was awarded the Cannes Film Festival prize in 1966 for the best woman actress of the year. Caminecci, 28, owns about 10% of the stock in Simens, one of West Germany's largest firms.

Chris Waltke, 74, Gunshot Victim

Pickrell (AP) — The Gage county Sheriff's office said 74-year-old Chris Waltke of Pickrell accidentally shot himself to death.

Officers said Waltke had taken a .22 caliber rifle to shoot at sparrows which had taken over a bird house and he accidentally shot himself in the head.

Autopsy Planned In Youth's Death

Pilger (UPI) — Authorities here were probing the death of Timothy Prowitz, 18, of rural Pilger.

He was found dead in his car in front of his farm home.

An autopsy was ordered to try to determine the cause of death.

Prowitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prowitz, last week was involved in a non-fatal accident between a car and minibike.

He had spent many years gathering the collection prior to his death last November. The collection was regarded as the most extensive in Florida.

Msgr. Nicholas H. Wegner and Mrs. Severns formally dedicated the small museum room which was set up in the fieldhouse to house the collection.

Over 2,500 model cars from every country of the world make up the bulk of the collection. In addition there are ivory carvings, brass, bone china, medallions and numerous other items.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

If it's not a messy bathroom, it's a five-speed bicycle and if it's not a three-speed bicycle. it's the dog with a small bone. Always, it seems, it is something in the household to keep you on your toes.

Recently, the family dog was crunching away on a bone. The bone, however, was a small one that, if swallowed, could have caused some problems for the animal. The trick was to coax the dog into surrendering the bone but without making her swallow it.

Friendly coaxing did not seem to work. The closer you got to the dog and her bone, the more prepared she seemed to be to swallow the bone. She would stop her chewing and look at you attentively, with the bone poised in her mouth.

Suddenly, someone came upon a brilliant idea. Offer the dog a little raw meat and she would drop the bone and go for the meat. The dog is a real chow hound; will eat anything and everything in sight on a second's notice. This includes such things as socks. paper. etc.

So, a small bit of hamburger was taken from the package in the refrigerator. In friendly fashion. the meat was carried with outstretched arm to the dog. But the dog turned the tables on the careful strategy She immediately swallowed the bone to gobble up the hamburger

Everyone gasped but the dog just wagged her tail and licked her chops. There is nothing more final and absolute than a dog's swallowing a bone. Once the thing is done it is finished and there is nothing to do but wait for the consequences. if any.

If the Lord didn't give the dog all the intelligence He did to man, He gave it a strong constitution. A week later, the dog was still fine. showing no ill effects of the swallowed bone. Perhaps the symptoms will still develop but it would seem at this point that the dog survived the episode.

But activity never ceases. You are sitting at work one day and the phone rings. On the other end of the line is the school principal who tells you that your seventh-grade daughter has been injured on the playground and you are advised to come and get her.

No, the caller doesn't know exactly what happened or the extent of the injury. That shakes you up a little so you round up your wife or take off yourself for school.

The girl, it seems, has a stiff neck, the result of her activity in a baseball game. It doesn't appear to be a serious matter but to be on the safe side. you run her out to the emergency room of the hospital.

The diagnosis is not bad, a kind of whip-lash injury to the neck. That means a strained neck muscle which calls for a few pills to ease the pain and the application of heat. It calls, too, for a few days of quiet.

The doctor suggests to the girl that she find some sport other than baseball.

To this she replies: "That's o.k., I like football better, anyway."

That is not exactly the kind of substitute the doctor had in mind but it is typical of the normal course of events. Not long before that, it was a case of a new pair of jeans. The youngster was right, her wardrobe was getting to the point where some replacements were in order.

New purchases made included a new pair of jeans, although they are now bell-bottoms called by some other name. But, jeans is a close enough description. Naturally, the first thing you do is wash them — before you wear them.

Don't ask why but you can't be caught dead in a pair of jeans that have a new look to them. You have to wash them before the youngster will wear them. That gives them the appearance of having been worn before and qualifies them for an appearance in public.

So out she goes with her newly washed jeans for an afternoon of play. Home she comes that evening with about a six-inch rip that nicely shredded the material. Now they really have that worn look but will occupy a low priority in the wardrobe because of the stitching job.

At least, it makes for plenty of excitement.

President Comments On Economic Era

Washington — President Nixon is gearing the government for a "generation of peace."

He has explained to associates that he expects economic rather than military rivalry to dominate the 1970s He believes that a nuclear stalemate will keep the great powers out of war for the next generation. The emphasis, therefore, should be on economic warfare.

In the President's view, our military foe of the 1940s, Japan, will become an economic foe in the 1970s. He has asked his new international economic adviser, Pete Peterson, to establish an "early warning system" to locate and identify foreign economic threats.

Explaining his ideas privately to Republican congressional leaders, the President pointed out that the number of steel workers in the U.S. has dropped from 670,000 to 606,000 in the past 20 years, that annual steel production in Japan has soared from 5 million to 100 million tons during the same period.

He counseled, however, that "you can't build a generation of peace simply by ending a war. You have to continue to build a structure of peace."

This would take new emphasis. he said, on our economic strength. But he warned that our military strength couldn't be neglected.

"A country that becomes a swollen economic giant but a military pygmy," he said, "is a big temptation to be plucked off. So the economic and military systems will have to continue. The neo-isolationists are the ones who will invite new military involvements."

Then, with earnest emphasis, he warned the GOP leaders: "The day we become No. 2 in the world, watch out!"

Dragon Lady — Beautiful Anna Chennault, the dragon lady of the Potomac, has urged President Nixon to end discrimination against Orientals. As a Chinese-American. she complained to the President that she belonged to "the silent minority." Her people didn't clamor against discrimination but suffered in silence. she said. She charged that the government, particularly the State Department, discriminates against Orientals. Not a single citizen of Oriental ancestry has been assigned to the desks that deal with Asian problems, she told the President during a private White House visit.

Governor Rockefeller warned President Nixon recently, according to a White House aide. that New York City's Mayor John Lindsay might enter the New Hampshire presidential primary as a Republican, not a Democrat as the press has speculated. In this event, Rockefeller offered to campaign in New Hampshire for the President . . .

A political pundit has disputed our story that Murray Chotiner is still handling political chores for the President since moving out of the White House into a law office across the street. The only presidential adviser, not on the White House payroll, who attended the President's dinner for GOP contributors on April 8, was Chotiner . . .

The men around the President, who presumably speak for him, are suggesting that the 1972 Republican convention should be held in California. They are opposed to holding it in the same city where the Democrats meet . . . This will come as disappointing news to the TV networks who would save hundreds of thousands of dollars if the two presidential conventions are held in the same city.

Reapportionment Plan

Reapportionment is a headache — a legal requirement, but nevertheless a headache — be it for legislative or Railway Commission districts or boundries within any other political subdivision. This is especially true in the Legislature, where each of the 49 senators undoubtedly has a formula which he feels would best serve the constituents' interests and his own to boot.

As a result of the 1970 census, Douglas County and Sarpy County each gain a senator. With plans to retain a 49-member Legislature, that means outstate Nebraska must give up two lawmakers. Senators who would be excluded would be those who come from odd-numbered districts whose terms expire next year.

Under the current legislative reapportionment plan, approved by the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee and advanced from general file last week on a 28-6 vote, Sens. Willard Waldo of DeWitt and Ellen Craft of North Platte would be prevented from seeking re-election. Waldo's district would become part of Beatrice Sen. Fred Carsten's district under the plan and Mrs. Craft's would become part of Sen. J. James Waldron's district.

Might as well not speculate as to the feelings of Mrs. Craft, who had announced that she wouldn't run for re-election next year in any event, or of Waldo, who had reported himself undecided. But at least three other lawmakers are unhappy with the plan. Sens. Cal Carsten of Avoca, Irving Wiltse of Falls City and Carstens of Beatrice last week offered a revised district alignment for southeast Nebraska which "fits our area better" but it was beaten down 17-9.

Actually, the plan is probably no better or no worse than most reapportionment proposals could have been. It features the usual amount of gerrymandering and crossing of county lines. For example, Sen. Waldron will in effect become North Platte's senator, replacing Mrs. Craft, with a small, rectangular patch of Waldron's home county, Custer, being attached to Lincoln County.

But, as Waldron said, it is impossible to satisfy everyone. The important thing is that relative population equality among the districts be achieved and how it is done depends on who has the muscle.

Glamour Is Fleeting

Have the nation's airlines discovered what most people have known for a long time, that glamour is fleeting? You have to wonder.

To solve the airline industry's $195 million loss last year, the Civil Aeronautics Board has approved a hike in air fares of six per cent, effective as of last Friday. Each airline is free to adopt all or part of the authorized increase.

In this move, the airlines are following the path of least resistence and starting down the road that spelled disaster for some other forms of transportation. What the lines may discover is that they have, in the past, enjoyed a lot of glamour — glamour that people will not continue to buy at any price.

This is especially noteworthy in consideration of the fact that the new Amtrak system of passenger trains is now in operation. Amtrak may or may not make it but it certainly has its share of dreams for the future.

Air patronage has already dropped off partly as a result of costs, and increased fares can only be expected to accelerate such a trend. Many travelers, for whatever the reason they are on the move, could discover that something such as Amtrak was an appealing alternative to air travel.

There is nothing in Amtrak to compete with the airlines from a time point of view. Certainly, you can go from coast to coast a lot more quickly by air than you will ever be able to do over the rails but people may discover that they are not in all that big a hurry to get where they are going.

When you separate those who really need the fast travel time of a jetliner from those who don't, you might find a lot of potential customers for alternate forms of transportation. And the automobile is hurting none when it comes to continuing popularity, a threat of no small proportions for the airlines.

Britain And South Africa Illustrate Quandary Of Whether Friendship Or Ostracism Pays Off

LONDON — One of the most trying dilemmas for a country with moral notions in its foreign policy is what to do about awkward friends. People generally opposed to American intervention abroad will suddenly demand that the State Department do somehing when a friendly government behaves unjustly. But do what? In terms of practicalities as well as political wisdom, the answer is seldom clear.

Relations between Britan and South Africa are an outstanding case in point. South Africa's racial tyranny offends many people in this country, but there is a fundamental disagreement about whether the South African government is likely to be influenced more by friendship or ostracism. The issue has become acute in two recent instances.

Last spring, opponents of apartheid threatened to obstruct a scheduled English cricket tour by the South African Springbok team. The Labor government finally forced cancellation of the tour. The Conservatives were highly critical, saying that "contacts" between South Africans and the outside world, in sports and other areas, would be most effective in bringing about gradual changes in the racist policy.

Then came the arms question. The Conservatives, having won power, have resumed the sale of arms to Pretoria in a modest way. One of Prime Minister Heath's specific reasons for doing so is a belief that isolation from other countries will make South Africa less reasonable, not more.

It is a complicated issue, not really susceptible of any clearcut resolution. But the recent news from South Africa does throw some interesting light on it, suggesting strongly that in particular circumstances outside pressure can infuence internal policy.

Last week Premier Vorster announced, to general surprise, that his government would allow a degree of interracial sport in the country. Foreign black athletes and mixed teams would be admitted, and a mixed South African squad could go abroad for the Olympics.

The concession was hedged about with restrictions: There could be no mixed training, and no mixed South African teams playing inside South Africa. But for a government of fanatical rigidity to make any concession was startling. And in the instance, it could be traced only to the effectiveness of foreign boycotts.

White South Africans love sports. The progressive exclusion of their teams from international cricket, rugby, the Olympics and other events has begun to cause a popular outcry. The government felt it had to give ground.

Now sport is a marginal matter from the point of view of apartheid or its critics. On fundamental issues — the right of Africans to equality before the law, or access to skilled jobs, or security of residence — direct outside pressure is much less likely to produce any results.

On the other hand, the Vorster government is looking outward now, seeking to end its isolation in Africa. That is the meaning of its diplomatic victory in the decision of President Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast to visit South Africa. It is the meaning also of the unsuccessful attempt at a dialogue with President Kaunda of Zambia, for Vorster seems to have been the seeker there.

All this indicates that South Africa is at a point when she has to care about outside opinion. It suggests a practical course for distant governments that have a concern for that country's powerless majority.

Realism is the first requirement. No politician, British or American or otherwise, should deceive himself that the South African government or its racial policy can be overthrown by imaginable means in the measurable future. Apocalyptic talk is unlikely to bring results.

But it is just as unrealistic to argue, as some do, that economic developments will inevitably break down apartheid and alleviate the cruelties of discrimination. A study just published in the Times of London shows that per capita income of whites in South Africa is more than $2,400 a year now, of Africans about $127 a year. The African figure has actually fallen lately, because population increase and rural impoverishment have outstripped urban wage rises.

Hey, what's this?

The Legislature has formally requested the Navy to name a nuclear-powered guided missile frigate for Nebraska.

You gotta watch those guys. There's more to that than meets the eye.

The secretary of the navy probably thinks the one-house unicameral (it used to be a two-house unicameral, according to Milan Wall) merely wants the honor of having the ship named for the state.

When he realizes that the senators mean to claim the ship once it is named, he is really going to be chaffed . . . John, that is.

You see, what they have in mind is a flagship for the Nebraska Navy.

The Legislature's Navy, not the governor's. That ship's gonna be manned by Terry and the Pirates.

It's gonna roam the Missouri River, threatening not only the governor but neighboring states.

You've got to believe it was no coincidence that the frigate proposal was raised at about the same time the senators were discussing boundary disputes with Missouri.

We've had a few problems with South Dakota and Iowa, too.

Target a few of those missiles for Des Moines and Pierre and we'll get those boundaries settled once and for all.

Prowling the Muddy Mo with its colors flying (Big Red, of course), the Nebraska will get its way.

Captain Marvel can keep the ship's treasury solvent, and Jules the Just can resolve the many mutinies which are bound to occur on a ship manned by 49 crew members who all look in the mirror and see an admiral.

And if there's any punishment to be meted out, remember there's a Savage aboard too.

And a Captain Morgan.

A Proud to keep morale up through the long days and nights of tedious duty.

And an aptly-named mate called Craft, but she and the mate Waldo are surely doomed to fall overboard before the ship finishes its first two-year tour of duty.

Cruising down the river, keeping the peace, the good ship Nebraska and its happy crew.

Looking down the barrel at Governor Exon.

He may have the Air Guard and the Army Guard at his call, but should he summon them to do battle, the secretary of the air force is likely to find a resolution from Lincoln landing on his desk, too.

How about a jet bomber named Nebraska, huh?

Ah, frigate, you are just the beginning. Ah, frigate!

Welcoming federal intelligence agents to his NU campus audience, Heller said:

"I'm surprised to see so many of you here even though I know some of you are FBI men and others are Army security people who are trying to keep track of the FBI men."

Heller told students he has been "cleared" as a campus speaker.

There are 65 names on a list of radical speakers published last year by the House Internal Security Committee, he said, but "mine's not among them."

But, he noted, "neither is Richard Nixon's" and the President, he said, "came to this very campus" earlier in the year "preaching revolution."

Heller said he believes he is as "safe" as Nixon since neither was on the list. "You might even find me as illuminating," he added.

His "Catch-22" is "my favorite novel by now," Heller said. "It taught me a lot and brought me a lot."

The movie version of his novel was "one of the best American movies I have ever seen," Heller said. But, he noted, he had "nothing to do" with making the movie.

—One statehouse press type has adopted the Nixon plan for giving up smoking: "I'm winding down on the number of cigarettes, but I'm not ready to announce a withdrawal date."

—It has also been suggested, with fieldhouse funding at stake, that Nebraskans smoke one for the Gipper.

—There is rising speculation in Lincoln that Frank Morrison will be a U.S. Senate candidate in 1972.

—Next target for an excise tax in Nebraska could be coffee. There's no harbor here.

—Mayor Sam ran like a champ, but this guy named Bus Bonds may be the real comer.

I am an elderly lady, 84 years old this year, and I think the most serious problem in our country today is leaving God out of our lives. And a most serious crisis is facing the world — mistrust. We need to cultivate love instead of hate.

The word of God tells us to earn our bread by the sweat of our brow and to be kind and gentle to our fellowmen, for kindness is dearer and more precious than gold.

There is so much fault-finding. If we could see everyone's good points and lift the fallen, our serious problems would soon cease.

Romans tells us: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called, according to His purpose." And also· "If God be for us, who can be against us?

Price Goes Up

Lincoln, Neb.

Five years ago most Americans paid little attention to the situation in Indochina. They knew little about it, and trusted that our government was doing the right things. They supported the war.

Lately Americans have taken the trouble to discuss and find out facts about Vietnam. And the more they learned, the more they questioned our policies. Now most Americans are opposed to the war.

The early support for the war was in a context of ignorance. The present opposition comes from knowledge. Many a hawk has turned dove on the basis of learning more, but no dove has turned hawk.

Clearly, the war is bad for both Vietnam and the United States. It is bad because of the lives lost, the people wounded, the economic waste, the millions of refugees created, the loss in prestige of our military, the fostering of unhealthy cynicism in our youth, the loss of American self-respect, and the loss of respect from others. These are high prices, and the price increases every day we stay in the war

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

If it's not a messy bathroom, it's a five-speed bicycle and if it's not a three-speed bicycle, it's the dog with a small bone. Always, it seems, it is something in the household to keep you on your toes.

Recently, the family dog was crunching away on a bone. The bone, however, was a small one that, if swallowed, could have caused some problems for the animal. The trick was to coax the dog into surrendering the bone but without making her swallow it.

Friendly coaxing did not seem to work. The closer you got to the dog and her bone, the more prepared she seemed to be to swallow the bone. She would stop her chewing and look at you attentively, with the bone poised in her mouth.

Suddenly, someone came upon a brilliant idea. Offer the dog a little raw meat and she would drop the bone and go for the meat. The dog is a real chow hound; will eat anything and everything in sight on a second's notice. This includes such things as socks, paper, etc.

So, a small bit of hamburger was taken from the package in the refrigerator. In friendly fashion, the meat was carried with outstretched arm to the dog. But the dog turned the tables on the careful strategy. She immediately swallowed the bone to gobble up the hamburger.

Everyone gasped but the dog just wagged her tail and licked her chops. There is nothing more final and absolute than a dog's swallowing a bone. Once the thing is done it is finished and there is nothing to do but wait for the consequences, if any.

If the Lord didn't give the dog all the intelligence He did to man, He gave it a strong constitution. A week later, the dog was still fine, showing no ill effects of the swallowed bone. Perhaps the symptoms will still develop but it would seem at this point that the dog survived the episode.

But activity never ceases. You are sitting at work one day and the phone rings. On the other end of the line is the school principal who tells you that your seventh-grade daughter has been injured on the playground and you are advised to come and get her.

No, the caller doesn't know exactly what happened or the extent of the injury. That shakes you up a little so you round up your wife or take off yourself for school.

The girl, it seems, has a stiff neck, the result of her activity in a baseball game. It doesn't appear to be a serious matter but to be on the safe side, you run her out to the emergency room of the hospital.

The diagnosis is not bad, a kind of whip-lash injury to the neck. That means a strained neck muscle which calls for a few pills to ease the pain and the application of heat. It calls, too, for a few days of quiet.

The doctor suggests to the girl that she find some sport other than baseball.

That is not exactly the kind of substitute the doctor had in mind but it is typical of the normal course of events. Not long before that, it was a case of a new pair of jeans. The youngster was right, her wardrobe was getting to the point where some replacements were in order.

New purchases made included a new pair of jeans, although they are now bell-bottoms called by some other name. But, jeans is a close enough description. Naturally, the first thing you do is wash them — before you wear them.

Don't ask why but you can't be caught dead in a pair of jeans that have a new look to them. You have to wash them before the youngster will wear them. That gives them the appearance of having been worn before and qualifies them for an appearance in public.

So out she goes with her newly washed jeans for an afternoon of play. Home she comes that evening with about a six-inch rip that nicely shredded the material. Now they really have that worn look but will occupy a low priority in the wardrobe because of the stitching job.

At least, it makes for plenty of excitement.

President Comments On Economic Era

He has explained to associates that he expects economic rather than military rivalry to dominate the 1970s. He believes that a nuclear stalemate will keep the great powers out of war for the next generation. The emphasis, therefore, should be on economic warfare.

In the President's view, our military foe of the 1940s, Japan, will become an economic foe in the 1970s. He has asked his new international economic adviser, Pete Peterson, to establish an "early warning system" to locate and identify foreign economic threats.

Explaining his ideas privately to Republican congressional leaders, the President pointed out that the number of steel workers in the U.S. has dropped from 670,000 to 606,000 in the past 20 years, that annual steel production in Japan has soared from 5 million to 100 million tons during the same period.

He counseled, however, that "you can't build a generation of peace simply by ending a war. You have to continue to build a structure of peace."

This would take new emphasis, he said, on our economic strength. But he warned that our military strength couldn't be neglected.

"A country that becomes a swollen economic giant but a military pygmy," he said, "is a big temptation to be plucked off. So the economic and military systems will have to continue. The neo-isolationists are the ones who will invite new military involvements."

Then, with earnest emphasis, he warned the GOP leaders: "The day we become No. 2 in the world, watch out!"

Dragon Lady — Beautiful Anna Chennault, the dragon lady of the Potomac, has urged President Nixon to end discrimination against Orientals. As a Chinese-American, she complained to the President that she belonged to "the silent minority." Her people didn't clamor against discrimination but suffered in silence, she said. She charged that the government, particularly the State Department, discriminates against Orientals. Not a single citizen of Oriental ancestry has been assigned to the desks that deal with Asian problems, she told the President during a private White House visit.

Governor Rockefeller warned President Nixon recently, according to a White House aide, that New York City's Mayor John Lindsay might enter the New Hampshire presidential primary as a Republican, not a Democrat as the press has speculated. In this event, Rockefeller offered to campaign in New Hampshire for the President . . .

A political pundit has disputed our story that Murray Chotiner is still handling political chores for the President since moving out of the White House into a law office across the street. The only presidential adviser, not on the White House payroll, who attended the President's dinner for GOP contributors on April 8, was Chotiner . . .

The men around the President, who presumably speak for him, are suggesting that the 1972 Republican convention should be held in California. They are opposed to holding it in the same city where the Democrats meet . . . This will come as disappointing news to the TV networks who would save hundreds of thousands of dollars if the two presidential conventions are held in the same city.

Reapportionment Plan

Reapportionment is a headache — a legal requirement, but nevertheless a headache — be it for legislative or Railway Commission districts or boundries within any other political subdivision. This is especially true in the Legislature, where each of the 49 senators undoubtedly has a formula which he feels would best serve the constituents' interests and his own to boot.

As a result of the 1970 census, Douglas County and Sarpy County each gain a senator. With plans to retain a 49-member Legislature, that means outstate Nebraska must give up two lawmakers. Senators who would be excluded would be those who come from odd-numbered districts whose terms expire next year.

Under the current legislative reapportionment plan, approved by the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee and advanced from general file last week on a 28-6 vote, Sens. Willard Waldo of DeWitt and Ellen Craft of North Platte would be prevented from seeking re-election. Waldo's district would become part of Beatrice Sen. Fred Carsten's district under the plan and Mrs. Craft's would become part of Sen. J. James Waldron's district.

Might as well not speculate as to the feelings of Mrs. Craft, who had announced that she wouldn't run for re-election next year in any event, or of Waldo, who had reported himself undecided. But at least three other lawmakers are unhappy with the plan. Sens. Cal Carsten of Avoca, Irving Wiltse of Falls City and Carstens of Beatrice last week offered a revised district alignment for southeast Nebraska which "fits our area better" but it was beaten down 17-9.

Actually, the plan is probably no better or no worse than most reapportionment proposals could have been. It features the usual amount of gerrymandering and crossing of county lines. For example, Sen. Waldron will in effect become North Platte's senator, replacing Mrs. Craft, with a small, rectangular patch of Waldron's home county, Custer, being attached to Lincoln County.

But, as Waldron said, it is impossible to satisfy everyone. The important thing is that relative population equality among the districts be achieved and how it is done depends on who has the muscle.

Glamour Is Fleeting

Have the nation's airlines discovered what most people have known for a long time, that glamour is fleeting? You have to wonder.

To solve the airline industry's $195 million loss last year, the Civil Aeronautics Board has approved a hike in air fares of six per cent, effective as of last Friday. Each airline is free to adopt all or part of the authorized increase.

In this move, the airlines are following the path of least resistence and starting down the road that spelled disaster for some other forms of transportation. What the lines may discover is that they have, in the past, enjoyed a lot of glamour — glamour that people will not continue to buy at any price.

This is especially noteworthy in consideration of the fact that the new Amtrak system of passenger trains is now in operation. Amtrak may or may not make it but it certainly has its share of dreams for the future.

Air patronage has already dropped off partly as a result of costs, and increased fares can only be expected to accelerate such a trend. Many travelers, for whatever the reason they are on the move, could discover that something such as Amtrak was an appealing alternative to air travel.

There is nothing in Amtrak to compete with the airlines from a time point of view. Certainly, you can go from coast to coast a lot more quickly by air than you will ever be able to do over the rails but people may discover that they are not in all that big a hurry to get where they are going.

When you separate those who really need the fast travel time of a jetliner from those who don't, you might find a lot of potential customers for alternate forms of transportation. And the automobile is hurting none when it comes to continuing popularity, a threat of no small proportions for the airlines.

Britain And South Africa Illustrate Quandary Of Whether Friendship Or Ostracism Pays Off

LONDON — One of the most trying dilemmas for a country with moral notions in its foreign policy is what to do about awkward friends. People generally opposed to American intervention abroad will suddenly demand that the State Department do somehing when a friendly government behaves unjustly. But do what? In terms of practicalities as well as political wisdom, the answer is seldom clear.

Relations between Britan and South Africa are an outstanding case in point. South Africa's racial tyranny offends many people in this country, but there is a fundamental disagreement about whether the South African government is likely to be influenced more by friendship or ostracism. The issue has become acute in two recent instances.

Last spring, opponents of apartheid threatened to obstruct a scheduled English cricket tour by the South African Springbok team. The Labor government finally forced cancellation of the tour. The Conservatives were highly critical, saying that "contacts" between South Africans and the outside world, in sports and other areas, would be most effective in bringing about gradual changes in the racist policy.

Then came the arms question. The Conservatives, having won power, have resumed the sale of arms to Pretoria in a modest way. One of Prime Minister Heath's specific reasons for doing so is a belief that isolation from other countries will make South Africa less reasonable, not more.

It is a complicated issue, not really susceptible of any clearcut resolution. But the recent news from South Africa does throw some interesting light on it, suggesting strongly that in particular circumstances outside pressure can infuence internal policy.

Last week Premier Vorster announced, to general surprise, that his government would allow a degree of interracial sport in the country. Foreign black athletes and mixed teams would be admitted, and a mixed South African squad could go abroad for the Olympics.

The concession was hedged about with restrictions: There could be no mixed training, and no mixed South African teams playing inside South Africa. But for a government of fanatical rigidity to make any concession was startling. And in the instance, it could be traced only to the effectiveness of foreign boycotts.

White South Africans love sports. The progressive exclusion of their teams from international cricket, rugby, the Olympics and other events has begun to cause a popular outcry. The government felt it had to give ground.

Now sport is a marginal matter from the point of view of apartheid or its critics. On fundamental issues — the right of Africans to equality before the law, or access to skilled jobs, or security of residence — direct outside pressure is much less likely to produce any results.

On the other hand, the Vorster government is looking outward now, seeking to end its isolation in Africa. That is the meaning of its diplomatic victory in the decision of President Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast to visit South Africa. It is the meaning also of the unsuccessful attempt at a dialogue with President Kaunda of Zambia, for Vorster seems to have been the seeker there.

All this indicates that South Africa is at a point when she has to care about outside opinion. It suggests a practical course for distant governments that have a concern for that country's powerless majority.

Realism is the first requirement. No politician, British or American or otherwise, should deceive himself that the South African government or its racial policy can be overthrown by imaginable means in the measurable future. Apocalyptic talk is unlikely to bring results.

But it is just as unrealistic to argue, as some do, that economic developments will inevitably break down apartheid and alleviate the cruelties of discrimination. A study just published in the Times of London shows that per capita income of whites in South Africa is more than $2,400 a year now, of Africans about $127 a year. The African figure has actually fallen lately, because population increase and rural impoverishment have outstripped urban wage rises.

Here is the trend of the presidential trial heats between Nixon and Muskie conducted by the Harris Survey over the past two years. As before, this latest cross section of 1,619 likely voters, including 18-20 year olds, across the nation was asked:

"Suppose the 1972 election for President were being held today and you had to choose right now — would you vote for Richard Nixon the Republican. Sen. Edmund Muskie for the Democrats, or George Wallace the Independent?" and "(if not sure) Well, if you had to say, would you lean toward Nixon the Republican, Muskie the Democrat, or Wallace the Independent?"

Nov. 1969	49%	35%	11%	5%
Oct	51%	35%	9%	5%
May	51%	33%	11%	5%

Taken over a period of nearly two years, these results clearly show a steady upward trend for Sen. Muskie and a downward trend for President Nixon. Contrary to some reports by political pundits, the Maine Democrat's popularity does not appear to be waning at all.

Confirming the basic set of this survey are the results of another pairing taken just between Sen. Muskie and President Nixon with George Wallace out of the race:

LOUIS HARRIS

Lead Widens

TREND OF NIXON-MUSKIE ALONE

	Nixon	Muskie	Not Sure
April 1971	44%	50%	6%
Feb.	42%	48%	10%
Jan.	46%	49%	5%

Muskie continues to hold onto the six-point lead he had back in February when the 1972 election is cast as a two-way contest. The significance of these results is that it has now become clear that it is something of a myth to assume that the bulk of George Wallace's vote would normally go to Richard Nixon. Wallace voters are essentially against the "in" establishment, and this includes the occupant of the White House, regardless of party.

Perhaps as good a measure of where Nixon stands politically today can be obtained in the results of another test when he is pitted against his 1968 opponent, Sen. Hubert Humphrey:

NIXON-HUMPHREY-WALLACE RACE

	1971 Test	1968 Results
Nixon	42%	43%
Humphrey	41%	43%
Wallace	13%	14%
Not Sure	4%	—

Against Sen. Humphrey, Nixon is precisely where he was back in 1968. Today, such a repeat contest with George Wallace as a third-party candidate would produce the identical result. This represents something of a comeback for Humphrey, but still places him well back of Muskie as the strongest Democratic nominee at this time.

Nor should the eight-point Muskie lead over the President be taken to mean that Nixon is incapable of opening up a sizable lead over other potential Democratic contenders. In this latest Harris Survey, the Presilatest Harris Survey, the President was also pitted against Sen. George McGovern, the only announced Democratic aspirant:

NIXON-McGOVERN-WALLACE RACE

	April	Feb.
Nixon	46%	45%
McGovern	36%	34%
Wallace	13%	12%
Not Sure	5%	9%

Although Sen. McGovern has gained two points since February, nonetheless he still trails Nixon by a 10-point margin. When compared with the eight-point Muskie lead, however, the McGovern dificit documents the current drawing power of the Maine Democratic senator.

Most significant about Muskie's vote-getting pattern is his continuing ability to carry the college-educated by a margin of 51% to 42% and persons with incomes of $15,000 and over by 47% to 46%. In order to win, Richard Nixon must be able to take this most affluent vote.

Muskie also is ahead among the 18-20 year old voters by 48-35% and he holds a commanding 51-39% edge among voters who are Catholic.

Significant as well is the result in the South, taken by President Nixon with 41% of the vote, but with Muskie closely behind with 36% and Wallace at 21%. These results indicate that the South may be changing to a more moderate stance since 1968, with Wallace's support limited to the four Deep south states and with Muskie being capable of giving Nixon a tough run in the near South and Border states.

Signs Remain Of E. Pakistan Slaughter

© The New York Times

Mymensingh, East Pakistan — Government soldiers pass time here stooting the bloated vultures of Mymensingh which have been feeding for the last two months on human bodies.

Mymensingh, about 70 miles north of Dacca, is the most populous district in all south Asia and is the center of Pakistan's jute-growing region.

But there is every evidence here of a slaughter of massive proportions during the period of bitter strife that began March 25.

No Casualty Figures

Army officials from West Pakistan commanding the occupation of the region decline to disclose over-all casualty figures, which, in any case, may not be known.

"There were so many bodies here," one officer said, "it was impossible to identify them or bury them. We had to just throw them into the river (the Braham Putra River, a tributary of the Ganges).

Army officials introduced correspondents to people who told of a slaughter of Bihari residents by the dominant Bengali group led by the outlawed Awami League. One man spoke of mass rape and mutiliation of women by Bengalis in the town.

1,000 Killed

Officials said the Bengalis had killed at least 1,000 Biharis before government forces retook Mymensingh in a one-day battle April 15.

Authorities said that of a heavily-armed Bengali insurgent group of about 1,000, nearly all had been killed in the fighting. The insurgents were said to have been well-entrenched and armed with antiaircraft machine guns, mortars and rocket launchers largely of India origin.

Mymensingh district, a vast, alluvial plain dotted with tropical fruit plantations and largely planted with jute, has about seven million inhabitants and population density of close to 2,000 persons a square mile.

Bengali Supporters

The overwhelming majority of its people are Bengali supporters of the East Pakistan separatist movement. The occupying army is made up mostly of West Pakistani officers and troops.

From the MI-8 Soviet-built helicopter from which correspondents were shown the eastern region of East Pakistan, massive destruction in towns and villages was visible as well as a number of bridges demolished by rebel forces.

Officials said a clash was fought with the "miscreants" last night near the Indian border but on the whole the situation was in hand.

Fighting Stops

Correspondents saw no evidence of continuing fighting.

Mymensingh itself was largely deserted apart from a handful of people at the market place, who carefully saluted passing army jeeps.

At intervals along the streets lined with ramshackle houses, bodies had been buried in shallow graves and covered with piles of red bricks. Brick graves of this type had been planted even on the porches of houses which themselves were unoccupied and closed.

Newsmen were shown a stock of several hundred rifles, seven machine guns and mortar ammunition purportedly of Indian origin and allegedly captured from infiltrating Indian border troops.

Indian Prisoners

In Dacca, the capital of East Pakistan, correspondents also were shown three prisoners said to have been captured from the ranks of infiltrating Indian forces inside Pakistan.

The three men said they had been sent to Indian border posts on the frontier and had removed their unit badges before crossing the frontier. Pakistani authorities said they had captured five Indian border guards in all, one of them wounded.

There seems little question at this point that the army is in full control of all major towns in East Pakistan, most of which have been evaluated by at least half their residents.

Army officials said pockets of resistance continue with insurgents trying to blow up bridges and other lines of communication, but that "search and destroy" operations with helicopter support are rapidly neutralizing them.

Tanks have been widely used in towns, where they apparently smashed rebel strongpoints in a matter of hours, in most cases.

Despite the desolation of its streets and the preponderance of vultures, the city of Mymensingh itself displays virtually no battle damage. The main loss of life apparently occurred in the fields and fruit groves outside, as well as in clusters of huts burned to the ground.

The local jute transportation shed is deserted and from the air it appeared that very few farmers were working their fields.

9 Leningrad Jews Reported Facing Trial In Russia

London (UPI)—The head of a Soviet Jewish organization in Britain said he had learned from Soviet sources that nine Leningrad Jews will go on trial in Leningrad Hay 11.

Alan Freeman, head of the British Universities Commission for Soviet Jewry, said friends in Leningrad of the nine Jews telephoned him.

He said they reported Leningrad officials informed relatives of the defendants of the trial date. The friends said the nine were arrested June 15, 1970, shortly after an attempt to hijack a Soviet aircraft at Smolny Airport, he said.

They were arrested, said Freeman, as part of a roundup of Jews following the hijack attempt and were found with postcards from friends in Israel and various Jewish documents in their possession. Jewish sources in Moscow said there were 35 persons arrested in raids shortly after the hijacking.

We think that we shall never see A derrick lovely as a tree.
A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

If you see an oil derrick when you're driving, and you think it clutters up the scenery, please think that if it weren't there, maybe you wouldn't be driving.

And think how many trees we'd have to cut if we still got fuel by burning wood.

The oil companies of America must explore wherever there's a reasonable chance of finding part of your daily requirement of three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas for every man, woman and child in America. It gets more difficult and more expensive all the time. Yet it must be done, because within the next 15 years your energy needs will nearly double.

This country gets 75 percent of its energy from oil and natural gas—energy to heat homes and offices, cook your food, warm your water, fuel and lubricate more than 105 million cars, trucks and buses. Oil and natural gas produce about 40 percent of the nation's electricity. And 3,000 different products, from aspirin and antifreeze to TV tubes and synthetic rubber, are made from oil.

Every derrick is a reminder that the oil companies are working to keep America working.

And every tree reminds us of the environment we must help protect. Last year we spent $560 million on air and water pollution control. This year we're spending even more.

Survey: Muskie Ahead Of Nixon By 8 Points

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the latest Harris Survey, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine has widened his lead over President Nixon to a 47-39% margin, with Gov. George Wallace on an independent line receiving 11%. Back in February, Sen. Muskie led the President by a margin of 44-39%.

Here is the trend of the presidential trial heats between Nixon and Muskie conducted by the Harris Survey over the past two years. As before, this latest cross section of 1,619 likely voters, including 18-20 year olds, across the nation was asked:

"Suppose the 1972 election for President were being held today and you had to choose right now — would you vote for Richard Nixon the Republican. Sen. Edmund Muskie for the Democrats, or George Wallace the Independent?" and "(if not sure) Well, if you had to say, would you lean toward Nixon the Republican, Muskie the Democrat, or Wallace the Independent?"

NIXON-MUSKIE-WALLACE TREND

	Nixon	Muskie	Wallace	Not Sure
April, 1971	39%	47%	11%	3%
Feb.	39%	44%	12%	5%
Jan.	40%	43%	11%	6%
Nov., 1970	40%	46%	10%	4%
Sept.	43%	43%	10%	4%
May	42%	38%	12%	8%
April	47%	36%	10%	7%
Feb.	49%	35%	11%	5%
Nov. 1969	49%	35%	11%	5%
Oct.	51%	35%	9%	5%
May	51%	33%	11%	5%

Taken over a period of nearly two years, these results clearly show a steady upward trend for Sen. Muskie and a downward-trend for President Nixon. Contrary to some reports by political pundits, the Maine Democrat's popularity does not appear to be waning at all.

Confirming the basic set of this survey are the results of another pairing taken just between Sen. Muskie and

LOUIS HARRIS

Lead Widens

President Nixon with George Wallace out of the race:

TREND OF NIXON-MUSKIE ALONE

	Nixon	Muskie	Not Sure
April 1971	44%	50%	6%
Feb.	42%	48%	10%
Jan.	46%	49%	5%

Muskie continues to hold onto the six-point lead he had back in February when the 1972 election is cast as a two-way contest. The significance of these results is that it has now become clear that it is something of a myth to assume that the bulk of George Wallace's vote would normally go to Richard Nixon. Wallace voters are essentially against the "in" establishment, and this includes the occupant of the White House, regardless of party.

Perhaps as good a measure of where Nixon stands politically today can be obtained in the results of another test when he is pitted against his 1968 opponent, Sen. Hubert Humphrey:

NIXON-HUMPHREY-WALLACE RACE

	1971 Test	1968 Results
Nixon	42%	43%
Humphrey	41%	43%
Wallace	13%	14%
Not Sure	4%	—

Against Sen. Humphrey, Nixon is precisely where he was back in 1968. Today, such a repeat contest with George Wallace as a third-party candidate would produce the identical result. This represents something of a comeback for Humphrey, but still places him well back of Muskie as the strongest Democratic nominee at this time.

Nor should the eight-point Muskie lead over the President be taken to mean that Nixon is incapable of opening up a sizable lead over other potential Democratic contenders. In this latest Harris Survey, the Presilatest Harris Survey, the President was also pitted against Sen. George McGovern, the only announced Democratic aspirant:

NIXON-McGOVERN-WALLACE RACE

	April	Feb.
Nixon	46%	45%
McGovern	36%	34%
Wallace	13%	12%
Not Sure	5%	9%

Although Sen. McGovern has gained two points since February, nonetheless he still trails Nixon by a 10-point margin. When compared with the eight-point Muskie lead, however, the McGovern dificit documents the current drawing power of the Maine Democratic senator.

Most significant about Muskie's vote-getting pattern is his continuing ability to carry the college-educated by a margin of 51% to 42% and persons with incomes of $15,000 and over by 47% to 46%. In order to win, Richard Nixon must be able to take this most affluent vote.

Muskie also is ahead among the 18-20 year old voters by 48-35% and he holds a commanding 51-39% edge among voters who are Catholic.

Significant as well is the result in the South, taken by President Nixon with 41% of the vote, but with Muskie closely behind with 36% and Wallace at 21%. These results indicate that the South may be changing to a more moderate stance since 1968, with Wallace's support limited to the four Deep south states and with Muskie being capable of giving Nixon a tough run in the near South and Border states.

9 Leningrad Jews Reported Facing Trial In Russia

London (UPI)—The head of a Soviet Jewish organization in Britain said he had learned from Soviet sources that nine Leningrad Jews will go on trial in Leningrad Hay 11.

Alan Freeman, head of the British Universities Commission for Soviet Jewry, said friends in Leningrad of the nine Jews telephoned him.

He said they reported Leningrad officials informed relatives of the defendants of the trial date. The friends said the nine were arrested June 15, 1970, shortly after an attempt to hijack a Soviet aircraft at Smolny Airport, he said.

They were arrested, said Freeman, as part of a roundup of Jews following the hijack attempt and were found with postcards from friends in Israel and various Jewish documents in their possession. Jewish sources in Moscow said there were 35 persons arrested in raids shortly after the hijacking.

We think that we shall never see A derrick lovely as a tree.
A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

If you see an oil derrick when you're driving, and you think it clutters up the scenery, please think that if it weren't there, maybe you wouldn't be driving.

And think how many trees we'd have to cut if we still got fuel by burning wood.

The oil companies of America must explore wherever there's a reasonable chance of finding part of your daily requirement of three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas for every man, woman and child in America. It gets more difficult and more expensive all the time. Yet it must be done, because within the next 15 years your energy needs will nearly double.

This country gets 75 percent of its energy from oil and natural gas—energy to heat homes and offices, cook your food, warm your water, fuel and lubricate more than 105 million cars, trucks and buses. Oil and natural gas produce about 40 percent of the nation's electricity. And 3,000 different products, from aspirin and antifreeze to TV tubes and synthetic rubber, are made from oil.

Every derrick is a reminder that the oil companies are working to keep America working.

And every tree reminds us of the environment we must help protect. Last year we spent $560 million on air and water pollution control. This year we're spending even more.

Colombian Envoy Said Near Death

Santiago Chile (AP) — A Colombian diplomat wanted in the shooting of a millionaire playboy was near death Sunday after falling out of the landing gear compartment of a departing jetliner during an escape attempt.

Police said Eduardo Espinoza de Zuleta, 30, second secretary at the Colombian Embassy in Washington, D.C., plunged more than 60 feet to the runway from a Braniff DC8 jet Saturday night as it was taking off from Pudahuel International Airport for Miami.

Espinoza had been sought since the Wednesday hotel shooting of Rafael Frieri Mazzedo 44, a naturalized Colombian citizen who was born in Italy. Police said Frieri refused to grant a divorce to his pretty wife so she and the young diplomat could marry.

Frieri is a millionaire and president of the Jockey Club of Colombia. He was in Chile to buy 40 race horses. His wife is Patricia Restrepo de Frieri, 32, who police say is a niece of former Colombian President Carlos Lleras Restrepo.

Espinoza's crumpled body was discovered about 9 p.m. Saturday by the pilot of an Iberia plane coming in for a landing 30 minutes after the Braniff departure.

The pilot had to step hard on the brakes and swerve his big jetliner to avoid hitting Espinoza.

The diplomat was rushed to a hospital suffering from numerous fractures and grave head injuries. He was in a coma, doctors reported.

Police said Espinoza flew to Chile from Washington last Wednesday with a false passport.

Frieri was in the royal suite of the downtown Carrerra-Sheraton hotel with two friends when he was shot five times. The gunman ran down a back stairway and escaped. The victim staggered into the hallway and collapsed. He was taken to a hospital in serious condition but doctors said he would recover.

Airport Authority Rejects Contract For Millard Site

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Airport Authority has turned down a contract calling for up to $600,000 in improvements at the Millard Airport.

The Omaha Authority executive director, Ronald Grear, said he was told by chairman Richard Corwine of the former Millard Airport Authority that the contract was signed April 22 after Millard was annexed by Omaha, but was dated April 6. Omaha on April 22 received from the district court mandates upholding the validity of the ordinance annexing Millard.

The Omaha Airport Authority said, therefore, that the contract had been rejected as not valid.

The Ted Reeder Construction Co. had been awarded the contract, which now has been rejected by the Omaha Authority.

BEFORE YOU CONTRACT FOR REPAIR ON YOUR HOME, CHECK WITH BBB

Eventually, every home needs to be remodeled or repaired. There are both good and poor home improvement contractors, so before you sign that agreement for home repair work, the Better Business Bureau suggests:

- Check carefully, for both price and quality.
- See that all work to be done is included in a written contract, and be sure you read and understand that contract before you sign it.
- Know the contractor's business reputation, or check with your Better Business Bureau.

Koepke, who has nine brothers and sisters, suffers from Hodgkin Disease.

The dribbler averaged 8 to 10 miles an hour during their three and one-half day marathon. Wood said they were frequently slowed down by the generous response they received in towns they stopped at along the way.

Memorable Event Ends Festival At Kimball Hall

RICHARD GRACE

The final Dedication Festival Concert of the week was also the dedication to the new Miskell Memorial Pipe Organ at the University of Nebraska's Kimball Hall Sunday evening, and it was indeed a memorable event.

Dr. Robert Baker is a true virtuoso at the organ and also has developed an acute sense of interpretive powers that leaves the listener with a feeling of awe of his multi-faceted capabilities.

Dr. Baker chose a program that attempted to show the versatility of the marvelous organ and to this reviewer the accomplishment was notable.

The program opened with a Fanfare for a New Organ by Myron Roberts written especially for this dedication. The second piece, Carillon de Westminister by Vierne, has the aspect of a chorale-prelude with the tones of "Big-Ben" in London used as the chorale tune. The Concerto IV by Handel utilized the Baroque color of the instrument with softer stops and more mellow colors.

Reger's Introduction and Passacaglia in D minor was an exciting and powerful composition that Dr. Baker played with great authority. The program notes remarked that Reger's music has experienced a revival in Germany because of the dullness of the older Romantic organs. Here again the instrument came through with flying colors.

The three chorale-preludes of Bach were the most difficult to appreciate by the audience because of their very nature. The most interesting of the three was "O Innocent Lamb of God" which is a variation chorale in three verses. The final verse employs a lively triple rhythm which is sprinkled with pronounced chromaticism to depict the suffering of Christ.

The Prelude and Fuge in D major is a great vehicle for virtuosic display. The prelude has some toccata characterstics with its scales, arpeggios, tremelos and French rhythms.

The fugue proper also defied exact analogy of the fugue form. Its subject does not have the usual motive, but rather a series of trills and mordents. Dr. Baker's artistry and brilliant technique drew a resounding applause.

The final two compositions were also well appreciated. Nova, composed by Myron Roberts, is a term used to describe a star which explodes sending fiery debris into space and both the composer and performer were able to utilize a full array of unusual colors of the instrument.

The last composition, Prelude and Fugue on the Name of BACH, is a fantasia in a grand manner. It is full of colorful and brilliant effects and is a great challenge to the performer. Dr. Baker's performance of this piece gave great cause to why he is regarded as one of the great organists of this day.

The Miskell organ was constructed for the performance of literature of all periods. It is naturally more difficult to achieve this desired effect than to build an organ devoted to only one period of music.

Kimball Hall was built in the same vein, that is to encompass performances of solo, and various kinds of ensembles. We are truly fortunate that both ventures have been so successful.

Water Taxi Hits Two Mines; At Least 30 Civilians Killed

Saigon (AP) — A water taxi crowded with civilians headed for market hit two floating mines in a river near the demilitarized zone Sunday, killing at least 30 Vietnamese.

It was by far the worst incident reported in the truce called by both sides for Buddha's birthday.

Witnesses said the 24-foot sampan was lifted into the air by one blast and when it settled back into the river it was riddled by a second explosion.

44 Aboard

Of 44 persons aboard, 30 were killed, 10 are missing and 4 were wounded, reports from the scene said. Saigon headquarters gave the number killed as 36, but reported only 26 bodies recovered.

The taxi was sailing along the Cua Viet River, about eight miles south of the demilitarized zone separating the Vietnams, to Dong Ha. Incidents involving floating mines occur frequently on the river.

The passengers were from the village of Mai Xa Changn, seven miles away. The sampan hit the mines near the north shore of the river.

Four Survivors

U.S. and South Vietnamese boats and helicopters picked up the four survivors, three of them wounded critically, and searched for the missing.

Invesitgators said the mines were pressure activated types set by the Viet Cong.

Saigon headquarters said the sampan incident was one of 51 "enemy initiated actions" reported by the allied commands during a 24-hour cease-fire in South Vietnam that overlapped a 48-hour Viet Cong truce. The cease-fires were called to mark the 2,515th anniversary of Buddha.

Ended At Noon

The allied cease-fire ended at noon Saigon time Sunday, and combat operations were resumed. The Viet Cong truce is scheduled to run until 7 a.m. Monday.

Half of the 51 reported incidents were described as insignificant, since they resulted in casualties to one side or another.

The U.S. command reported two Americans killed and six wounded. It said American forces killed 10 of the enemy.

Ten Soldiers

Saigon headquarters reported 43 South Vietnamese civilians and 10 soldiers killed and 16 civilians and seven soldiers wounded. Government troops killed 24 enemy soldiers, the Saigon command said.

Two incidents were reported in the Saigon region.

A Saigon command spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Viet, said snipers opened fire shortly before noon on south Vietnamese militiamen on a road clearing mission 12 miles west of Saigon, killing two of the government soldiers. One Viet Cong soldier was killed.

Coffee Shop Hit

Terrorists set off a bomb in a coffee shop in Trang Bang, a town 25 miles northwest of Saigon, wounding five civilians.

Although the allied commands said that they had halted combat operations in South Vietnam, U.S. and South Vietnamese reconnaissance patrols and road security missions were kept up.

The allies said these were defensive in nature to protect against surprise enemy attack. Many of the reported enemy violations involved allied patrols and reconnaissance helicopters that were fired on.

Rogers To Bring Home Mildly Optimistic Report

Rome (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew home Sunday to deliver a mildly optimistic report to President Nixon on his Middle East peace mission.

He indicated some progress had been made on possible reopening of the Suez Canal, but this view was not shared in Egypt. An Egyptian Foreign Ministry spokesman told newsmen in Cairo: "There is no change in the situation . . . the differences continue to be great between the Egyptian and Israeli views."

He spoke to newsmen after Joseph Sisco, assistant secretary of state, spent four hours with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Rogers had sent Sisco back to Cairo to inform Sadat of Israel's position following Rogers' talks with Israeli leaders Friday.

Rogers spent 26 hours in Rome after completing his Mideast tour. During his visit here, he encouraged Italian leaders to continue their own Middle East peace efforts.

He also obtained a pledge from Pope Paul VI to help American prisoners of war in Vietnam "in a humanitarian way."

Rogers' visit to Rome, following a swing through five Middle East countries, touched off wild rioting Saturday night. A thousand Maoist-line leftists three fire bombs at police, burned two police cars, broke shop windows and erected street barricades.

Withdrawal Demanded

They denounced Rogers as a "hangman" and demanded American withdrawal from Indochina. Seven policemen were hurt in the disturbances, which flared in crowded, downtown Rome, far from the suburban Hilton hotel where Rogers was staying.

Rogers concluded his two-week foreign journey with a news conference Saturday night in which he made clear that he felt more encouraged about the possibilities of a Mideast peace now than when he left Washington.

Summing up his findings in talks with Israeli and Arab officials, Rogers said "prospects have been improved to some extent" for an accord opening the Suez Canal. But he added that this did not mean "the prospect for the opening of Suez is bright." "I am more encouraged as to a broader settlement," which he indicated should be pursued with U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Space Agency 'Heartbroken' Over Ship's Crash

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — "We're heartbroken," a space agency official said Sunday as investigators sought a reason for the failure of the Mariner 8 Mars shot and crews prepared a twin craft, Mariner 9, for launching May 18.

Mariner 9 could be delayed depending on what the investigation turns up. But hope was expressed that if Mariner 9 is launched, it will be able to perform some functions originally planned for Mariner 8.

The first half of the $153.6 million project to orbit Mars with two satellites failed Saturday night less than five minutes after liftoff. The second stage of the Atlas-Centaur rocket tumbled out of control 92 miles above the earth and plunged with its payload into the Atlantic Ocean 900 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

'Mission Is Lost'

"The mission is lost," came the terse announcement from the launch control center.

Several days may be required to pinpoint the cause of the failure, but initial study of radio data indicated a fault with the Centaur's flight control system.

"It could be something has simple as a loose or broken wire," an official said.

Three separate teams were named Sunday to investigate various aspects of the problem. They represent the Kennedy Space Center's Unmanned Launch Operations Directorate; The Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio, which has management responsibility for the rocket, and General Dynamics Convair Division, San Diego, Calif., which bult it.

'Proceed Right Ahead'

Robert S. Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronauticis and Space Administration, said "it is our intent while doing the detailed investigation to proceed right ahead with our plans to launch the second Mariner on May 18.

"Depending on what is learned, ed, we have additional time in the launch period where we can stop our preparations and make corrections to the Atlas-Centaur if they are necessary," Kraemer said.

The launch team has until June 17. After that Mars moves out of favorable position and won't be available as a target again for 25 months.

Asked to place a pricetag on the loss, Karemer replied:

"I guess you can take the total $153.6 million cost of the two launches and divide by two. That's the financial loss. But the loss to science — it's hard to estimate that value. We were all very excited about the prospect of having two spacecraft in Mars orbit performing different missions."

Mariners 8 and 9 were the first spacecraft built to orbit another planet. Mariner 8 was to have conducted a broad mapping mission, while Mariner 9 was to have made repeated studies of six selected areas to note atmospheric, surface and seasonal changes. Each was equipped with two television cameras and several sensors.

The information could determine if conditions exist on Mars in which some primitive forms of life, such as microbes or plants, could exist.

Mapping Takeover

Kraemer said Mariner 9 will now take over Mariner 8's mapping assignment.

"We'll meet with the science investigators to see what we can salvage of both missions on a single flight," he said. "It is clear that mapping carries a very high priority, so any compromise made here cannot be substantial. We will salvage what we can of the second mission. It's obvious we can't accomplish all the objectives we have planned."

"We'll get the launch off and take our time determining what orbital path we'll fly," Kraemer said. "We have until Nov. 19, five days before the spacecraft reaches Mars, to make a decision on what orbit to fire it into. . ."

Terrorist Bombs Kill Mother, 73, In North Ireland

Belfast, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Terrorists struck during the night with explosive and fire bombs, killing the mother of a militant Protestant leader and setting fires in Belfast department stores and shops, police reported Sunday.

Police said the attacks apparently were carried out by Irish republican extremists.

Suspected Poisoning Of 15 Eagles Investigated

Casper, Wyo. (AP) — The U.S Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is investigating the apparent poisoning of 11 rare bald eagles and four golden eagles whose carcasses were found in a canyon west of here, officials said Sunday.

The remains of a dozen of the birds, found by hikers in Jackson County last week, have been sent to a federal laboratory in Maryland for analysis to determine the cause of death.

Everett Sutton, the U.S. Bureau's regional management and enforcement director, said in Albuquerque, N.M., that a report from the laboratory is expected in about 10 days.

Poison Suspected

"At this stage of the game we don't know what killed them. We would suspect it was some type of poison," he said.

In addition to the 15 eagles found last week, 25 others were found shot to death in a ditch 90 miles southwest of Casper, near Rawlins, two months ago, said State Rep. John Turner.

Turner, an authority on the birds, said Wyoming is among the lest six states that have a dozen or more nesting pairs of the bald eagle, an endangered species and the national bird.

Wyoming officials said it was suspected the Jackson Canyon eagles might have died after eating poisoned meat set out by stockmen for predators during the winter.

"To find that many together, one would suspect some kind of poison," Turner said.

Charles A. Lawrence, the bureau's chief of management and enforcement, Sutton, and several other federal officials toured the half-mile stretch of Jackson Canyon, one of the few winter roosting areas for the migrating bald eagle, but so far have made no report, a Wyoming Game and Fish Department official said.

Fred T. Christensen, in charge of the predatory animal division of the Wyoming Game and Fish Department at Casper, said that although both the bald eagle and golden eagle are protected by federal law, only the bald eagle is protected under state regulations.

Christensen said wool growers in various counties can get state permission to kill golden eagles if the birds are preying on livestock

Said On Upswing

He said the eagle population in the state has been on an upswing recently, but said he had no precise figures on the numbers of birds believed in the state and did not know how many might be nesting pairs.

Turner, who is working on a doctorate in wildlife ecology at the University of Michigan, said there are "considerably less than 200 mated pairs of bald eagles left in the country."

He said the eagles mate for life, so the only young to perpetuate the species come from nesting adults.

No Accurate Count

Sutton said there was no known accurate count on the number of eagles in the region.

"There is no attempt at a survey that would come close to an accurate estimate," he said.

It was believed that most of the 25 eagles found shot near Rawlins were golden eagles although Turner said some young bald eagles also may have been killed.

Guy H. Williams, a former president of the Wyoming Wildlife Association, said two federal agents went to the scene to investigate. The agents left to continue the investigation, but when they returned the remains of the birds had been removed.

Postage Rates Apt To Rise So Mail Letters This Week

Washington (AP) — Write somebody a letter. Open your wallet, take out that six-cent stamp and put it on the envelope. This is the last week you can mail it without postage due.

Because next Sunday, unless a federal judge frustrates the U.S. Postal Service, postage rates are going up. It will take eight cents to mail a letter and 11 cents if you send it by air.

Penny postcards, which have cost a nickel for a long time, go up to six cents. And all second- and third-class rates, plus some fourth-class rates will increase by from 10% to 20%. Special delivery and registered mail costs also go up.

Recommendation Pending

The May 16 boost comes under what the Postal Service claims is its authority to make temporary increases in postal rates pending a recommendation by the Postal Rate Commission.

A group of mail users, led by magazine and newspaper publishers, have challenged the right of Postmaster General Winton M. Blount and the nine other members of the Postal Board of Governors to use such authority.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the mailers are seeking an injunction to halt the increases until the rate commission, which begins hearings next Monday on a permanent, $1.45-billion-a-year revenue proposal, has time to act.

Judge William B. Bryant is tentatively scheduled to rule early this week, but postal authorities profess confidence he will not block the temporary rate increases.

So confident are they, in fact, that some stamps reflecting the higher, temporary rates have already gone on sale More go on sale this week at post offices around the nation.

The Postal Service has printed up billions of the eight-cent Eisenhower stamp, record best-seller in its six-cent version, and the eight-cent American-flag stamp, also popular at six cents.

Poison Suspected

"At this stage of the game we don't know what killed them. We would suspect it was some type of poison," he said.

In addition to the 15 eagles found last week, 25 others were found shot to death in a ditch 90 miles southwest of Casper, near Rawlins, two months ago, said State Rep. John Turner.

Turner, an authority on the birds, said Wyoming is among the lest six states that have a dozen or more nesting pairs of the bald eagle, an endangered species and the national bird.

Wyoming officials said it was suspected the Jackson Canyon eagles might have died after eating poisoned meat set out by stockmen for predators during the winter.

"To find that many together, one would suspect some kind of poison," Turner said.

Charles A. Lawrence, the bureau's chief of management and enforcement, Sutton, and several other federal officials toured the half-mile stretch of Jackson Canyon, one of the few winter roosting areas for the migrating bald eagle, but so far have made no report, a Wyoming Game and Fish Department official said.

Fred T. Christensen, in charge of the predatory animal division of the Wyoming Game and Fish Department at Casper, said that although both the bald eagle and golden eagle are protected by federal law, only the bald eagle is protected under state regulations.

Christensen said wool growers in various counties can get state permission to kill golden eagles if the birds are preying on livestock.

Said On Upswing

He said the eagle population in the state has been on an upswing recently, but said he had no precise figures on the numbers of birds believed in the state and did not know how many might be nesting pairs.

Turner, who is working on a doctorate in wildlife ecology at the University of Michigan, said there are "considerably less than 200 mated pairs of bald eagles left in the country."

He said the eagles mate for life, so the only young to perpetuate the species come from nesting adults.

No Accurate Count

Sutton said there was no known accurate count on the number of eagles in the region.

"There is no attempt at a survey that would come close to an accurate estimate," he said.

It was believed that most of the 25 eagles found shot near Rawlins were golden eagles although Turner said some young bald eagles also may have been killed.

Guy H. Williams, a former president of the Wyoming Wildlife Association, said two federal agents went to the scene to investigate. The agents left to continue the investigation, but when they returned the remains of the birds had been removed.

Postage Rates Apt To Rise So Mail Letters This Week

Washington (AP) — Write somebody a letter. Open your wallet, take out that six-cent stamp and put it on the envelope. This is the last week you can mail it without postage due.

Because next Sunday, unless a federal judge frustrates the U.S. Postal Service, postage rates are going up. It will take eight cents to mail a letter and 11 cents if you send it by air.

Penny postcards, which have cost a nickel for a long time, go up to six cents. And all second- and third-class rates, plus some fourth-class rates will increase by from 10% to 20%. Special delivery and registered mail costs also go up.

Recommendation Pending

The May 16 boost comes under what the Postal Service claims is its authority to make temporary increases in postal rates pending a recommendation by the Postal Rate Commission.

A group of mail users, led by magazine and newspaper publishers, have challenged the right of Postmaster General Winton M. Blount and the nine other members of the Postal Board of Governors to use such authority.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the mailers are seeking an injunction to halt the increases until the rate commission, which begins hearings next Monday on a permanent, $1.45-billion-a-year revenue proposal, has time to act.

Judge William B. Bryant is tentatively scheduled to rule early this week, but postal authorities profess confidence he will not block the temporary rate increases.

So confident are they, in fact, that some stamps reflecting the higher, temporary rates have already gone on sale. More go on sale this week at post offices around the nation.

The Postal Service has printed up billions of the eight-cent Eisenhower stamp, record best-seller in its six-cent version, and the eight-cent American-flag stamp, also popular at six cents.

Brides At Afternoon Ceremonies

For the wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Davies, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Tookey Davis, and Ray Wallace Lambert, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wallace Lambert, which took place on Saturday afternoon, May 8, the chapel at St. Paul Methodist Church was appointed with arrangements of chrysanthemums and blue carnations in brass baskets, and lighted candles in greenery-entwined candelabra.

As her sister's maid of honor and only attendant Miss Diane Davies wore a floor-length, A-line frock of white lace and radiant blue chiffon. The lace fashioned the Empire bodice which was snugly fitted above the chiffon skirt, and she carried a colonial bouquet of blue miniature carnations and white pompons.

The bride chose a gown of white, re-embroidered Alencon lace for her wedding. The long-sleeved, Empire bodice of beaded lace, fashioned with a ring neckline, was smoothly sculptured above the A-line silhouette skirt, and back interest was given the gown with a Watteau train which extended from Empire height into chapel length. A cluster of pearl-bordered organza petals held to the head her bouffant shoulder-length veil of illusion, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with white roses and an accent of springeri.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Missouri. Mr. Lambert is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Pharmacy.

At a 1 o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon, May 8, the marriage of Miss Mary Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shaw, to Michael Dennis Hakenkamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hakenkamp, was solemnized at Sacred Heart Church. The Rev. Raymond Hain read the lines of the service before a background of white carnations and lavendar gladioli.

Wearing alike, Empire frocks styled with fitted bodices of lavendar taffeta above floor-length skirts of floral-patterned organza, were attendants Miss Betty Pella, the maid of honor; bridesmaids, Miss Linda Daniels and Miss Vicky Shaw, and brides-matrons Mrs. William Hendricks, and Mrs. Keith Ottoson of Des Moines, Iowa. Each carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums centered with a lavendar rose.

The bride appeared in a gown of organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The Empire bodice of lace was fashioned with a lace-scalloped, oval neckline and elbow-length sleeves, and the lace was repeated to form a front panel on the silhouette skirt from Empire height to floor-length. Accenting the back of the gown was a detachable train of organza. A bouffant, shoulder-length veil was held in place with a princess crown, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations and lavendar sweetheart roses.

The bride is a graduate of Joseph's College of Beauty. Mr. Hakenkamp will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in science.

The wedding is planned for August.

Abby: bad news

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a musician who plays first trumpet with a well-known band. We have a great relationship in every way but one. He is very stingy with his kisses. He says if he engages in too much kissing his lips will become "tender" and it will affect his trumpet playing.

Don't get me wrong, Abby. He is a very romantic and loving guy, and he's great with the follow-thru, but he prefers to skip the kissing.

Is he putting me on. Or do all sweethearts and wives of trumpet players get cheated on kisses because their men have to protect their lips?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Take it from the lips of those pros who responded to my telephone inquiry with the following quotes:

HARRY JAMES (world-famous veteran trumpet player, Las Vegas) "That guy must be kidding. I've been doing both for over 35 years and so far I haven't had to give up either one, thank heavens!"

HERB ALPERT (leader of Tijuana Brass) "All I can say is that kissing has improved my tongue. For whatever that's worth."

"DOC" SEVERINSEN (leader of Johnny Carson show orchestra) "If that guy isn't putting his girl on, tell him to live with the pain. My wife says if I ever started to ration my kisses to save my lips, it would be the end of our marriage."

ROBERT DI VALL (first trumpet player with Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra) "Any musician who must curtail his kissing because of his trumpet playing will never do either one very well."

Party Honors Bride-Elect

Miscellaneous showers can provide a lot of fun for the party honoree since she seldom knows what she will find in any package.

Miss Jan Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Church, is one of many summer brides-elect who already has been entertained at a miscellaneous shower, and she was in for a basket full of surprises a she opened each gift at a courtesy on Sunday afternoon, May 2. Hostess for the party was Miss Ann Sutherland, one of Miss Church's Sigma Kappa sorority sisters at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Church is the July bride-to-be of LeRoy Earl Umphres, son of Roy Uphres and Mrs. Martha Uphres.

Opening lead — king of spades.

There is a great deal of literature on opening leads but the fact is that much less is known about this phase of the game than any other you can name.

Most players lose more points because of unsuccessful opening leads than they do on the play of the next twelve tricks combined. This is not altogether surprising when you consider that the opening leader sees only his own 13 cards before making his initial play, while a moment after the choice is made 26 cards become visible.

There are quite a few good general principles to follow on most hands in selecting an opening lead, but the number of times when the opening lead is pretty much a shot in the dark is highly distressing — especially after the shot boomerangs and proves fatal.

At one table the American South opened with four hearts, which everybody passed. Pietro Forquet was West and was faced with a wide choice of leads.

After considering the matter carefully he decided that four tricks would be hard to come by with passive defense. Accordingly he made the aggressive lead of the king of spades.

This venture into the unknown proved entirely successful when he continued with a spade to East's ace, ruffed the next spade, returned a club to partner's ace, and got another space ruff to put South down two.

At the second table the Italian South opened with only three hearts, also abruptly ending the bidding. Peter Leventritt (West), using similar reasoning, also led the king of spades and defeated the contract. Apparently, great minds run in the same direction.

Punch Party

The members of the Cornhusker Chapter of American Women in Radio and Television will be hostesses at a Punch Party on Wednesday evening, May 12.

NU Ceres Club Has New Officers

When the wives of instructors in the Agriculture and Home Economics College at the University of Nebraska and the women instructors in the college gathered together many, many years ago and decided to form a club, little did they know that the tradition would last and those particular people would be meeting today.

The group has survived — and is known as the Ceres Club.

At that organization's meeting on Thursday afternoon, May 6, new officers were installed, Sen. Ferne Orme presented the program, and the special guests were introduced.

Among the special guests at the meeting were Mrs. Durward Varner, wife of the NU chancellor; Mrs. Joseph Soshnik, wife of the retiring president; and wives of state senators who represent Lancaster County.

The newly-installed president of the Ceres Club is Mrs. R. A. Olson, and helping herwith the group's plans and projects next year will be Mrs. Dan Lutz, vice president; Mrs. William Langenberg, secretary; and Mrs. Earl Ellington, treasurer.

Committee chairmen will be Mrs. Glenn Froning, program; Mrs. Glen Helmers, courtesy; and Mrs. Paul Fischbach, hospitality.

Luncheon Planned

The Faculty Women's Club of the University of Nebraska will have as special guests the wives of Nebraska state senators at a luncheon at the Nebraska Student Union on Wednesday, May 12, at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Koch is chairman of the hostess committee. Committee members are Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. Larry Cundiff, Mrs. Paul Guyer, and Mogens Plum.

Reservations are required. Reservations may also be made for nursery care for children.

DEAR WONDERING: Take it from the lips of those pros who responded to my telephone inquiry with the following quotes:

HARRY JAMES (world-famous veteran trumpet player, Las Vegas) "That guy must be kidding. I've been doing both for over 35 years and so far I haven't had to give up either one, thank heavens!"

HERB ALPERT (leader of Tijuana Brass) "All I can say is that kissing has improved my tongue. For whatever that's worth."

"DOC" SEVERINSEN (leader of Johnny Carson show orchestra) "If that guy isn't putting his girl on, tell him to live with the pain. My wife says if I ever started to ration my kisses to save my lips, it would be the end of our marriage."

ROBERT DI VALL (first trumpet player with Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra) "Any musician who must curtail his kissing because of his trumpet playing will never do either one very well."

MISS GLORIA FOSTER

Of special interest to campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Willis W. Foster of Bellevue, of the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to Paul Joseph Struckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Struckman of Brule.

The wedding is planned for August.

Miss Foster is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, and where she is majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Struckman also will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in German, and where he is a member of Delta Phi Alpha, national German honorary.

Party Honors Bride-Elect

Miscellaneous showers can provide a lot of fun for the party honoree since she seldom knows what she will find in any package.

Miss Jan Church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Church, is one of many summer brides-elect who already has been entertained at a miscellaneous shower, and she was in for a basket full of surprises a she opened each gift at a courtesy on Sunday afternoon, May 2. Hostess for the party was Miss Ann Sutherland, one of Miss Church's Sigma Kappa sorority sisters at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Church is the July bride-to-be of LeRoy Earl Umphres, son of Roy Uphres and Mrs. Martha Uphres.

Luncheon Planned

The Faculty Women's Club of the University of Nebraska will have as special guests the wives of Nebraska state senators at a luncheon at the Nebraska Student Union on Wednesday, May 12, at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Koch is chairman of the hostess committee. Committee members are Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. Larry Cundiff, Mrs. Paul Guyer, and Mogens Plum.

Reservations are required. Reservations may also be made for nursery care for children.

A Stamp Collector? Then pictures and news of new and old Stamps in the "Sunday Journal and Star's "Stamp News" column is a must.

Stennis Will Seek Limitation On President's War Powers

Washington (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, a strong supporter of the Pentagon and of the Nixon administration's conduct of the Vietnam conflict, said Sunday he plans to sponsor a resolution designed to limit a presidents' powers to make war.

The Mississippi Democrat and Armed Forces Committee chairman made it clear his proposal would not apply to the current Indochina conflict. But he said the congressional limits he seeks are "the best practical way to get our feet back on the ground. For the decades ahead I think we must make a new start."

Stennis's resolution would allow a president to commit U.S. forces in emergencies, including surprise attack and 4whenever Americans who are lawfully in another country are endangered. In such cases, he said, he envisions a 30-day limit by which time Congress must pass a declaration of war or the troop would have to be withdrawn.

But most important, he stressed, it would prohibit commitment of troops in the first place to countries where no emergency exists. In that light, he said "I opposed our going" into Vietnam in 1954 after the French were defeated there. However, he reaffirmed his support of President Nixon's present efforts in Vietnam.

Stennis said his resolution "puts the responsibility for war where it belongs, on the people's representatives."

Stennis said if the August 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution had been labeled a declaration of war it would have had much rougher sailing in the Senate. The measure, cited in the past as authority for continuing the U.S. efforts in Vietnam, received just one vote in opposition.

Doesn't Want Debate

Stennis stressed he does "not want to smoke up the resolution with debate about the present war."

On other matters Stennis said:

—A threatened filibuster of the two-year draft extention will not prevent the measure's passage in the Senate. He said a one-year extention would not be sufficient for necessary Defense Department planning purposes in all pursuits, not just the Vietnam war.

—The Vietnam war will not be a political issue in the 1972 elections. He added "I don't think a fighting war should ever be a political issue."

SALT Delegates Have Long Talk During Boat Trip

Klagenfurt, Austria (AP) — Gerard C. Smith and Vladimir Semenov, the American and Soviet chief delegates to the current strategic arms limitations talks, had a long, "satisfactory and fruitful" conversation Sunday during a boat trip.

The two SALT delegations came here for the weekend at the invitation of the Austrian government. Informants said the boat journey on Lake Woerth had to be lengthened about 20 minutes in order not to disturb the two chief negotiators.

There was no word as to what they discussed.

Infrared Film Spots Elms With Disease

An Army reconnaissance plane outfitted with infrared cameras has surveyed Denver three times in the past 1½ years, locating dying trees which can harbor the elm-killing disease.

"These experiments have helped us find stricken trees faster so ground crews can get rid of them," City Forester George Stadler said. "Imagine how long it takes to check everyone of the city's 200.000 elms on foot."

Denver has 335,000 trees. The elms, valued at $500 million by the National Shade Tree the city's tree cover.

Infrared film, which is sensitive to thermal radiation, has been used in wartime to spot camouflaged enemy activity from the air. In the Denver experiments to spot dying trees, the film differentiates dead from living wood.

Healthy trees show up red on the film; dying and dead wood fades from pink to brown to gray.

Lou LaPerriere, senior city planner, became familiar with infrared detection as an Army Reserve intelligence officer. When Dutch elm disease showed up here in 1969, he turned to infrared technology and within five weeks of the outbreak, the experimental surveys began.

LaPerriere, who had feared Denver might lose ali its elms within five years as had many eastern and central states cities, is encouraged by the experiments.

LaPerriere said aerial infrared surveys, which cost $80,000 to $100,000 each, are relativley cheap surveillance when compared to an estimated $25 to $32 million price tag for removing all the city's elms.

Ceylon Relaxes Island Curfew To Honor Buddha

Colombo, Ceylon (AP) —The curfew imposed during Ceylon's youthful insurgency was relaxed Sunday so that islanders could celebrate the birth of Buddha.

Although no official truce or cease-fire was declared. government forces did not actively engage rebel groups hiding in the island's mountains and forests.

Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike, in a special message, appealed to the rebels to "return to the pale of decent society and eschew the violence and murder which not only corrupts our social fabric but also . . . brings death and destruction on themselves.

Stennis Will Seek Limitation On President's War Powers

Washington (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, a strong supporter of the Pentagon and of the Nixon administration's conduct of the Vietnam conflict, said Sunday he plans to sponsor a resolution designed to limit a presidents' powers to make war.

The Mississippi Democrat and Armed Forces Committee chairman made it clear his proposal would not apply to the current Indochina conflict. But he said the congressional limits he seeks are "the best practical way to get our feet back on the ground. For the decades ahead I think we must make a new start."

Stennis's resolution would allow a president to commit U.S. forces in emergencies, including surprise attack and 4whenever Americans who are lawfully in another country are endangered. In such cases, he said, he envisions a 30-day limit by which time Congress must pass a declaration of war or the troop would have to be withdrawn.

But most important, he stressed, it would prohibit commitment of troops in the first place to countries where no emergency exists. In that light, he said "I opposed our going" into Vietnam in 1954 after the French were defeated there. However, he reaffirmed his support of President Nixon's present efforts in Vietnam.

Stennis said his resolution "puts the responsibility for war where it belongs, on the people's representatives."

Stennis said if the August 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution had been labeled a declaration of war it would have had much rougher sailing in the Senate. The measure, cited in the past as authority for continuing the U.S. efforts in Vietnam, received just one vote in opposition.

Doesn't Want Debate

Stennis stressed he does "not want to smoke up the resolution with debate about the present war."

On other matters Stennis said:

—A threatened filibuster of the two-year draft extention will not prevent the measure's passage in the Senate. He said a one-year extention would not be sufficient for necessary Defense Department planning purposes in all pursuits, not just the Vietnam war.

—The Vietnam war will not be a political issue in the 1972 elections. He added "I don't think a fighting war should ever be a political issue."

SALT Delegates Have Long Talk During Boat Trip

Klagenfurt, Austria (AP) — Gerard C. Smith and Vladimir Semenov, the American and Soviet chief delegates to the current strategic arms limitations talks, had a long, "satisfactory and fruitful" conversation Sunday during a boat trip.

The two SALT delegations came here for the weekend at the invitation of the Austrian government. Informants said the boat journey on Lake Woerth had to be lengthened about 20 minutes in order not to disturb the two chief negotiators.

There was no word as to what they discussed.

Infrared Film Spots Elms With Disease

An Army reconnaissance plane outfitted with infrared cameras has surveyed Denver three times in the past 1½ years, locating dying trees which can harbor the elm-killing disease.

"These experiments have helped us find stricken trees faster so ground crews can get rid of them," City Forester George Stadler said. "Imagine how long it takes to check everyone of the city's 200.000 elms on foot."

Denver has 335,000 trees. The elms, valued at $500 million by the National Shade Tree the city's tree cover.

Infrared film, which is sensitive to thermal radiation, has been used in wartime to spot camouflaged enemy activity from the air. In the Denver experiments to spot dying trees, the film differentiates dead from living wood.

Healthy trees show up red on the film; dying and dead wood fades from pink to brown to gray.

Lou LaPerriere, senior city planner, became familiar with infrared detection as an Army Reserve intelligence officer. When Dutch elm disease showed up here in 1969, he turned to infrared technology and within five weeks of the outbreak, the experimental surveys began.

LaPerriere, who had feared Denver might lose all its elms within five years as had many eastern and central states cities, is encouraged by the experiments.

LaPerriere said aerial infrared surveys, which cost $80,000 to $100,000 each, are relativley cheap surveillance when compared to an estimated $25 to $32 million price tag for removing all the city's elms.

Ceylon Relaxes Island Curfew To Honor Buddha

Colombo, Ceylon (AP) —The curfew imposed during Ceylon's youthful insurgency was relaxed Sunday so that islanders could celebrate the birth of Buddha.

Although no official truce or cease-fire was declared. government forces did not actively engage rebel groups hiding in the island's mountains and forests.

Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike, in a special message, appealed to the rebels to "return to the pale of decent society and eschew the violence and murder which not only corrupts our social fabric but also . . . brings death and destruction on themselves.

Non-Group Enrollment Now Open for people of all ages and families of all sizes for as much as

$36,000.00 tax-free cash income

when hospitalized for sickness or accident.

PLUS... special after-hospital cash for folks 65 or over!

But you must act now! Enrollment closes Midnight Saturday May 15

WHILE YOU ARE HOSPITALIZED — UP TO 3 FULL YEARS

WHILE YOUR SPOUSE IS HOSPITALIZED — UP TO 3 FULL YEARS

FOR EACH ELIGIBLE CHILD HOSPITALIZED — UP TO 3 FULL YEARS

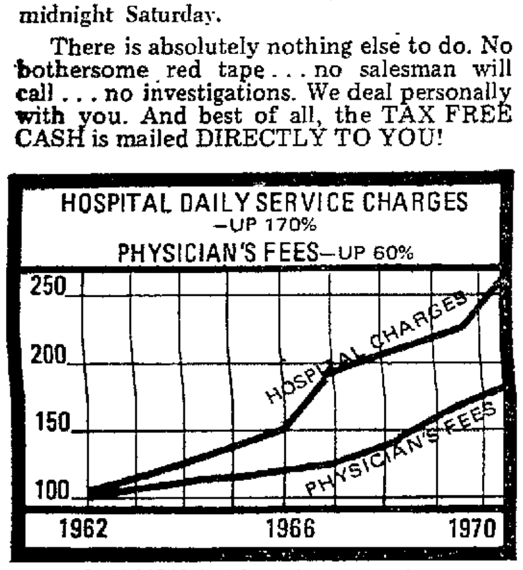
Now, during this limited enrollment, you can enroll yourself and all eligible members of your family and receive the first full month's protection for only $1.00. There is absolutely no red tape, and your coverage starts just as soon as your application is accepted.

That's right, regardless of your age, the size of your family or your occupation — even if you are retired — your first month's protection costs only $1. Just complete the enrollment form below and mail it with your dollar before midnight Saturday.

There is absolutely nothing else to do. No bothersome red tape . . . no salesman will call . . . no investigations. We deal personally with you. And best of all, the TAX FREE CASH is mailed DIRECTLY TO YOU!



CAN YOU AFFORD $100.00 A DAY?

We will soon have hospital charges of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS A DAY! And yet, we can't do without these services. We do get sick . . . we do have accidents . . . we do need operations . . . there are times when we must go to the hospital, and when we do, these overwhelming daily charges must be paid! What is the average person to do? . . . what can the average person do? . . .

SUPPOSE YOU . . . . . .

the breadwinner, the head of the family, are suddenly hospitalized Your income goes down, or worse yet it stops all together. Your expenses skyrocket. Your rainy day savings are washed away like water down a drain.

Suppose you the wife, the mother, are suddenly hospitalized. Who takes care of your home? Who takes care of your children? These things take cash, extra cash not in your regular budget. Surely your husband cannot take time off from work, not now, not when you need EXTRA cash

Suppose one of your children is suddenly hospitalized. When it comes to hospital care for them, the sky's the limit. You wouldn't even stop to think about the cost!

ARE YOUR RETIRED?

Covered by Medicare? Medicare won't cover all the expenses. It wasn't meant to. As a matter of fact, your share of hospitalization costs under Medicare has recently INCREASED 10%—a ten per cent increase in YOUR cost!

Hospitals are filled to capacity and overflowing . . . Why? . . . because one out of every two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family . . . tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month, and hospitals take cash, lots and lots of cash. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage or cash reserves to meet today's soaring hospital costs. Look at the graph on this page. It was prepared from publications of the United States Department of Labor. It shows that hospital costs have more than doubled in just a few short years, and at their present rate of increase these costs will double again in the next few years. It shows that daily hospital services charges will soon be $100.00 a day.

WHERE DOES THE NEEDED CASH COME FROM?

The Hospital Aid Income Plan, series 2917 can be your answer; the same as it has been for thousands of other folks throughout our country. What a blessing to know that with Hospital Aid you can receive over $36,000 for each and every new sickness or accident. While you are hospitalized this cash is paid to you at the rate of $1.000 a month for as long as three full years! For your spouse the cash benefit is $700 a month and for your covered children it's $500 a month.

Even health problems you have now are covered after your Hospital Aid Plan is in force for only 24 months! That last point is so important it should be repeated: After your policy is in force just 24 months it is "claim proof"—you will even be covered for conditions you now have!

There are no long waiting periods before your coverage is in force. All new sicknesses and accidents that hospitalize you for more than three days are covered as soon as your Hospital Aid Plan is issued. $1,000 a month for up to three full years . . . as much as $36,000 TAX FREE CASH protection that starts immediately!

IMPORTANT NOTE FOR FOLKS 65 OR OVER: AFTER-HOSPITAL CASH

Hospitals are discharging patients faster than ever. And they must! There simply are not enough hospital beds to go around. This means more and more folks must complete their care and recovery in convalescent homes. Here again, these private convalescent facilities take cash, lots of it.

Most insurance plans stop paying when you leave the hospital—but your expenses don't stop . . . the bills keep coming in . . . and especially so when you or a member of your family is forced to enter a convalescent home.

After a covered hospital stay of only 6 days your Hospital Aid Income Plan Series 2918 will continue to pay you for as long as one hundred days whenever you must complete your recovery in a convalescent home!

If you become eligible for Extended Care Facility benefits while a resident in-patient because of coverage under Medicare, your Hospital Aid Income Plan will also cover that Extended Care Facility under this benefit provision! And the cash will be paid directly to you . . . cash to help take care of all those other expenses that continue to pile up . . . cash when you need it the most!

NO RED TAPE

You go the hospital . . . you receive a check in the mail for the covered number of days you're in the hospital. You go to a Convalescent Home following your hospital stay . . . you receive a check in the mail for the number of days you're in the convalescent home. It's that simple.

YOU GET THE CHECK . . .

not the doctor or hospital. And your Hospital Aid Plan pays you over and above any other insurance coverage you now have, including Medicare, workmen's compensation, group insurance or any other kind of protection.

Cash to spend as you see fit—for hospital or doctor bills, mortgage payments, expensive specialists—or for any of the necessary but costly extras not fully covered by the usual hospital plans.

HOW CAN WE OFFER SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE?

Because we pass our savings on to you. We have no salesmen to pay, no investigators, and because we enroll many, many folks at one time we keep our administrative and processing costs down to the bare minimum. This is why your first month's protection costs only $1. for the whole family! And it's also the reason why you must mail your enrollment form before midnight of the date shown.

ABOUT THE COMPANY AND THE ENROLLMENT FORM

If you have seen plans similar to this you will notice that we ask a couple of questions not asked by the other companies. We should say, not asked at the time of enrollment!

The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania was founded in 1794, just 18 years after the founding of our Country. Among its founders were several signers of The Declaration of Independence. It is licensed in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

What does this mean to you? Just that over a period of 175 years we have learned quite a bit about the protection of people, about the protection of folks like you. All of that experience and knowledge has gone into the creation of this Hospital Aid Income Plan.

We have learned that it's to your benefit to ask a couple of questions at the time of enrollment, rather than at the time of a request for benefits! This gives you the added assurance of receiving benefit payments when you need them—not weeks and months later!

And remember, just because you may answer one or more of the questions "yes" does not automatically make you ineligible—but it does automatically make you eligible for fast, efficient service when the need arises!

Enroll now, before the enrollment deadline, and enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing that you have reliable protection from the second oldest stock insurance company in the United States!

YOUR GUARANTEE

We mail your Hospital Aid Income Policy as soon as you receive your enrollment form. Examine it in the privacy of your home. In fact, you can show it to someone you trust, your lawyer, banker or accountant. Or, even better yet, show it to your own insurance man. If he's a good insurance man he has your best interests at heart. You'll be pleasantly surprised to discover there is NO FINE PRINT.

After reading your policy, if you decide you do not want it, just return it to us and we will refund your money . . . no questions asked. What could be fairer? You take no risk at all, there is absolutely no obligation.

THESE ARE THE ONLY EXCLUSIONS

The only things not covered by your plan are war, pregnancy, self-inflicted injury, or pre-existing conditions. Every other condition, sickness or accident, causing hospital confinement is covered!

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THE HOSPITAL AID INCOME PLAN

Q. Who is this company? Are they reliable?

A. They most certainly are. The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania is licensed by all 50 states and District of Columbia. It is the second oldest stock insurance company in the United States, founded in 1794. Among its founders were several signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Q. Why should I have the Hospital Aid Income Plan if I carry other insurance or if I am protected by Medicare?

A. The U.S. Department of Labor reports show that hospital costs are already over $70.00 a day. This report from the U.S. Department of Labor shows, that at the present rate of increase hospital costs will soon be over $100.00 a day!

Q. Do I collect in addition to other sickness and accident protection?

A. Absolutely! The Hospital Aid Income is paid in addition to any other coverage you might have, including workmen's compensation and Medicare. And the cash is paid directly to you.

Q. What is my hospital income?

A. $233.31 a week—That's $1,000.00 a month right up to the full maximum of $36,000.00 tax free cash!

Q. What is the "After-Hospital Cash"?

A. This is cash for folks 65 or over who must complete their recovery in a convalescent home.

Q. What about death benefits?

A. $10,000 00 cash is paid to your beneficiary (if you are under age 65) in the event of your death through accidental means. Even up to 180 days after the date of the accident!

Q. Are there any other benefits?

A. Yes. The plan pays you up to $10,000.00 cash for loss of limbs or eyesight through accidental means, if you are under age 65. The loss of eyesight is a terrible thing, nothing can replace the loss. But a check for $5,000.00 or $10,000.00 will help to relieve the financial worries and give greater peace of mind during the period of adjustment.

Q. Will you cancel my policy if I have too many claims?

A. NO—POSITIVELY NOT! You, of course, can drop your plan on any renewal date.

Q. What's the catch? How can you give so much for so little?

A. There is no catch—just cash protection for you made possible by enrolling thousands of people at one time, as is done in many group plans; by letting you deal directly with the company and eliminating the salesman; by not charging special membership fees; by not requiring expensive medical examinations; by eliminating enrollment red tape; and by the knowledge, experience and know-how we have gained in providing protection for folks like you for over 175 years!

Q. All right, what isn't covered?

A. For the hospital income and the after-hospital cash the only things not covered are war, self-inflicted injury or pre-existing conditions, and maternity. Everything else is covered!

For the accidental death and dismemberment benefits the only things not covered are military service, suicide, private aircraft, professional athletics, speed contests, infections not occurring through an accidental cut or wound, intoxicants or narcotics. Everything else is covered and you or your beneficiary receive up to $10,000.00 cash under this benefit.

A. This special $1 rate covers you and all eligible members of your family.

Q. Why should I enroll right now?

A. Because the sooner you enroll, the sooner your benefits begin. And, because in order to qualify for these benefits and this rate, you must mail your enrollment form before the close of this limited enrollment.

Don't leave yourself and your loved ones without this extra cash protection that is so desperately needed with today's $70.00 a day hospital costs. The enrollment deadline is only a few days away, please don't delay.

Remember, this is a $1. no risk enrollment offer. When you receive your policy, you will see that it is easy to read, easy to understand. There is absolutely nothing else to do. No bothersome red tape . . . no salesman will call . . . no investigations. We deal personally with you. And best of all, the TAX FREE CASH is mailed DIRECTLY TO YOU!

CAN YOU AFFORD $100.00 A DAY?

We will soon have hospital charges of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS A DAY! And yet, we can't do without these services. We do get sick . . . we do have accidents . . . we do need operations . . . there are times when we must go to the hospital, and when we do, these overwhelming daily charges must be paid! What is the average person to do? . . . what can the average person do? . . .

SUPPOSE YOU ......

the breadwinner, the head of the family, are suddenly hospitalized. Your income goes down, or worse yet it stops all together. Your expenses skyrocket. Your rainy day savings are washed away like water down a drain.

Suppose you the wife, the mother, are suddenly hospitalized. Who takes care of your home? Who takes care of your children? These things take cash, extra cash not in your regular budget. Surely your husband cannot take time off from work, not now, not when you need EXTRA cash.

Suppose one of your children is suddenly hospitalized. When it comes to hospital care for them, the sky's the limit. You wouldn't even stop to think about the cost!

ARE YOUR RETIRED?

Covered by Medicare? Medicare won't cover all the expenses. It wasn't meant to. As a matter of fact, your share of hospitalization costs under Medicare has recently INCREASED 10%—a ten per cent increase in YOUR cost!

Hospitals are filled to capacity and overflowing . . . Why? . . . because one out of every two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family . . . tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month, and hospitals take cash, lots and lots of cash. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage or cash reserves to meet today's soaring hospital costs. Look at the graph on this page. It was prepared from publications of the United States Department of Labor. It shows that hospital costs have more than doubled in just a few short years, and at their present rate of increase these costs will double again in the next few years. It shows that daily hospital services charges will soon be $100.00 a day.

WHERE DOES THE NEEDED CASH COME FROM?

The Hospital Aid Income Plan, series 2917 can be your answer; the same as it has been for thousands of other folks throughout our country. What a blessing to know that with Hospital Aid you can receive over $36,000 for each and every new sickness or accident. While you are hospitalized this cash is paid to you at the rate of $1,000 a month for as long as three full years! For your spouse the cash benefit is $700 a month and for your covered children it's $500 a month.

Even health problems you have now are covered after your Hospital Aid Plan is in force for only 24 months! That last point is so important it should be repeated: After your policy is in force just 24 months it is "claim proof"—you will even be covered for conditions you now have!

There are no long waiting periods before your coverage is in force. All new sicknesses and accidents that hospitalize you for more than three days are covered as soon as your Hospital Aid Plan is issued. $1,000 a month for up to three full years . . . as much as $36,000 TAX FREE CASH protection that starts immediately!

IMPORTANT NOTE FOR FOLKS 65 OR OVER: AFTER-HOSPITAL CASH

Hospitals are discharging patients faster than ever. And they must! There simply are not enough hospital beds to go around. This means more and more folks must complete their care and recovery in convalescent homes. Here again, these private convalescent facilities take cash, lots of it.

Most insurance plans stop paying when you leave the hospital—but your expenses don't stop . . . the bills keep coming in . . . and especially so when you or a member of your family is forced to enter a convalescent home.

After a covered hospital stay of only 6 days your Hospital Aid Income Plan Series 2918 will continue to pay you for as long as one hundred days whenever you must complete your recovery in a convalescent home!

If you become eligible for Extended Care Facility benefits while a resident in-patient because of coverage under Medicare, your Hospital Aid Income Plan will also cover that Extended Care Facility under this benefit provision! And the cash will be paid directly to you . . . cash to help take care of all those other expenses that continue to pile up . . . cash when you need it the most!

NO RED TAPE

You go the hospital . . . you receive a check in the mail for the covered number of days you're in the hospital. You go to a Convalescent Home following your hospital stay . . . you receive a check in the mail for the number of days you're in the convalescent home. It's that simple.

YOU GET THE CHECK...

not the doctor or hospital. And your Hospital Aid Plan pays you over and above any other insurance coverage you now have, including Medicare, workmen's compensation, group insurance or any other kind of protection.

Cash to spend as you see fit—for hospital or doctor bills, mortgage payments, expensive specialists—or for any of the necessary but costly extras not fully covered by the usual hospital plans.

HOW CAN WE OFFER SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE?

Because we pass our savings on to you. We have no salesmen to pay, no investigators, and because we enroll many, many folks at one time we keep our administrative and processing costs down to the bare minimum. This is why your first month's protection costs only $1. for the whole family! And it's also the reason why you must mail your enrollment form before midnight of the date shown.

ABOUT THE COMPANY AND THE ENROLLMENT FORM

If you have seen plans similar to this you will notice that we ask a couple of questions not asked by the other companies. We should say, not asked at the time of enrollment!

The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania was founded in 1794, just 18 years after the founding of our Country. Among its founders were several signers of The Declaration of Independence. It is licensed in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

What does this mean to you? Just that over a period of 175 years we have learned quite a bit about the protection of people, about the protection of folks like you. All of that experience and knowledge has gone into the creation of this Hospital Aid Income Plan.

We have learned that it's to your benefit to ask a couple of questions at the time of enrollment, rather than at the time of a request for benefits! This gives you the added assurance of receiving benefit payments when you need them—not weeks and months later!

And remember, just because you may answer one or more of the questions "yes" does not automatically make you ineligible—but it does automatically make you eligible for fast, efficient service when the need arises!

Enroll now, before the enrollment deadline, and enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing that you have reliable protection from the second oldest stock insurance company in the United States!

YOUR GUARANTEE

We mail your Hospital Aid Income Policy as soon as you receive your enrollment form. Examine it in the privacy of your home. In fact, you can show it to someone you trust, your lawyer, banker or accountant. Or, even better yet, show it to your own insurance man. If he's a good insurance man he has your best interests at heart. You'll be pleasantly surprised to discover there is NO FINE PRINT.

After reading your policy, if you decide you do not want it, just return it to us and we will refund your money . . . no questions asked. What could be fairer? You take no risk at all, there is absolutely no obligation.

THESE ARE THE ONLY EXCLUSIONS

The only things not covered by your plan are war, pregnancy, self-inflicted injury, or pre-existing conditions. Every other condition, sickness or accident, causing hospital confinement is covered!

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THE HOSPITAL AID INCOME PLAN

Q. Who is this company? Are they reliable?
A. They most certainly are. The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania is licensed by all 50 states and District of Columbia. It is the second oldest stock insurance company in the United States, founded in 1794. Among its founders were several signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Q. Why should I have the Hospital Aid Income Plan if I carry other insurance or if I am protected by Medicare?
A. The U.S. Department of Labor reports show that hospital costs are already over $70.00 a day. This report from the U.S. Department of Labor shows, that at the present rate of increase hospital costs will soon be over $100.00 a day!

Q. Will you cancel my policy if I have too many claims?
A. NO—POSITIVELY NOT! You, of course, can drop your plan on any renewal date.

Q. What's the catch? How can you give so much for so little?

Q. All right, what isn't covered?
A. For the hospital income and the after-hospital cash the only things not covered are war, self-inflicted injury or pre-existing conditions, and maternity. Everything else is covered!

Everything else is covered and you or your beneficiary receive up to $10,000.00 cash under this benefit.

Q. Who's covered by the special $1 rate?
A. This special $1 rate covers you and all eligible members of your family.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon
Star Sports Writer

Pitcher Or Outfielder?

Gene Stohs is either a pitcher with a high enough batting average to play outfield or an outfielder with a good enough pitching arm to hurl.

That's the situation confronting the Grand Island junior on the Nebraska baseball team not only for the final six games this season but for next year and the future.

Husker coach Tony Sharpe was counting on Stohs to be one of his mainstays on the mound this season. But in NU's season's opener at Houston against Houston University, a line drive roared back at Stohs on the pitching mound that, as was discovered later, broke his middle finger on his left hand — his pitching hand.

"I kept playing with it for the next two weeks," he says, "but then I had it x-rayed and it was broken. It feels fine now but I have it taped all the time as a precautionary measure."

Even with limited use of the finger, he has compiled a 1-1 won-loss pitching record with a sparkling 1.69 ERA and a .313 batting average (second highest for NU going into last weekend's series at Oklahoma).

Although he has not pitched since the early part of the season, the 6-0, 165-pounder is really not anxious to hurl for NU or in his future baseball career.

"I really don't want to pitch that much," he explains. "I'd rather play everyday. I feel more relaxed in the outfield than I do when I'm pitching."

Skips Oakland Offer

After he was graduated from Grand Island Senior High in the summer of 1968, the Oakland A's of the American League offered him a bonus to pitch for their organization. But Stohs bypassed that offer to attend Nebraska and work towards his college degree.

Now, he says the scouts that have expressed an interest in him are more concerned with his batting average, speed on the bases and outfielding than his pitching.

"I'll play anyplace that the coach wants to play here at NU," he says, "but the scouts tell me that they want me as an outfielder so I would kind of like to play outfield and get experience there."

The 20-year-old pre-medicine major was one of the main reasons why NU jumped from last place in 1969 in the Big Eight to third last season. He earned a 2-2 record pitching and swatted a fine .310 average as Nebraska boasted an 11-8 league record last year.

Stohs, who jokingly says he has been playing baseball since he was three-years-old, doesn't take a vacation in the summer after the Huskers complete their season.

Last summer, he played with the Liberal (Kan) Beejays who earned a berth in the national semi-pro tournament in Wichita This summer he heads north to play with the Anchorage Glacier Pilots, also a semi-pro team, presumably as an outfielder.

"I'm kind of anxious to go up there and see what Alaska is like and also play baseball," he says.

While Sharpe has lost a pitcher who was expected to be his top left-hander this season, he gained a swift basebrunner and outfielder. Either way, NU has benefited.

Improvement Evident In Prep Track Chart

. . . GREENO EQUALS SECOND-FASTEST MILE IN STATE HISTORY

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The high school top ten chart for the eight individual running events has just one new leader this week when compared to last week's lists, but a lot of newcomers and improvement by previous pacesetters is evident.

The most exciting changes came in the Lincoln City Public School championships when Northeast's Ron Greeno and Cliff Karthauser, already at the top of the mile and two-mile lists, dramatically lowered their statewide leading times.

Greeno equalled the second-fastest mile ever run in Nebraska history with a 4:16.1 clocking, just a tenth of a second back of the alltime leading 4:16.0 which Grand Island's Lynn Hall recorded while winning the state meet last spring.

Karthauser toured the gruelling eight-lap race in 9:35.4, six seconds faster than his previous best. It became the sixth-swiftest in state prep history.

The new leader is Grand Island's Steve Buckner who zipped over the low hurdles in :19.5 at the Big Ten meet over the weekend.

Leaders, Page 12

Two others came up with superb performances to tie pacesetters who had previously enjoyed the No. 1 position alone.

Terry Bender of Class D Humphrey sped to a :09.7 clocking in the 100-yard dash and now shares the top spot with Hastings' Art Smith.

The other came in the 120-yard high hurdles. Omaha Tech's Howard Beacham skimmed the tall barriers in :14.2, equalling the top statewide time of South Sioux City's Scott Beerman.

The biggest general shuffling took place in the mile. In addition to Greeno's spectacular run, four others from last week's top ten also turned in best-of-the-season performances.

And another quartet, not previously in the top ten, came up with times qualifying them for the select group.

But this is the week when top ten times, recorded earlier in the year, have little meaning. It's district elimination meet time.

In 28 district meets across the state the entries for the state meet will be determined. In the four Class A groupings the first four finishers in each individual event and the first and second placers in the relays will qualify for the state meet.

In the six Class B meets it will be the first three places in the individual events and the two top relay teams, while in the nine Class C and nine class D affairs just the first two finishers in the individual events and the winning relay team will move on to the state meet in Kearney, May 21-22.

NICKLAUS WINS CLASSIC

. . . 33RD TOUR VICTORY

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus burst out of a closely bunched field with birdies on three of the last four holes Sunday and repeated as the champion in the $125,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Nicklaus had a final-round 66, four under par on the rain-drenched Preston Trail Golf Club course, and posted a 72-hole total of 274 in scoring his second victory in as many starts.

Nicklaus, the only three-time winner on the pro tour this year, won the Tournament of Champions two weeks ago to go with an earlier victory in the PGA National Campionship.

It was the 33rd tour victory in Nicklaus' fantastic professional career and pushed his leading money winnings for the season to $131,776.

The field was closely bunched before the Golden Bear made his move with three consecutive birdies starting on the 14th hole — a drive that gave him a two-stroke victory in this tournament that he won a year ago when he bested Arnold Palmer in a sudden-death playoff.

At one time or another nine players shared the lead in the final round that was delayed almost two hours by a pair of thunderstorms that threatened to wash out the day's play.

But Nicklaus, the 31-year-old giant who is the only man ever to win all the world's major titles two times, solved that when he rapped in birdie putts of 25, 12 and 15 feet on consecutive holes down the stretch.

Long shot Jerry McGee, the first-round leader who rallied with a brilliant 65 on the final round, finished in a tie for second with Frank Beard, winner of last week's New Orleans Open. Each had a 276 total, Beard with a final round 67.

Masters champion Charles Coody, the leader going into the darkly-overcast day, had a final 71 for 278 and was alone at that figure. He bogeyed the final hole.

Bert Yancey, 67, Bobby Nichols, 69, and Lee Trevino, 71, were next at 269. Palmer, just two strokes back of the leader going into final round play, never got it going and finished at 281 after a 72.

There was considerable doubt that the day's play would be completed. The lightning-laced thunderstorms caused two major delays and the round was played under the threat of a tornado watch.

The long delay extended the television time by about two hours and had announcers searching desperately for things to say —even going to a videotape rerun of Nicklaus' victory over Palmer the year before.

But Big Jack solved the problem for them.

He stayed in position when he laced an iron to within less than six inches on the eighth hole for his first birdie, then, almost as if he were bidding his time until he got into camera range, he parred around to the 15th.

He was in a three-way tie for second at that point, but caught McGee, already in the clubhouse, when he holed it from 25 feet. That put him four under par for the tournament.

Nicklaus ripped an iron to 12 feet on the next hole and calmly knocked it into the center of the cup. The surprisingly large gallery, huddled under umbrellas and wearing rain gear, let out a shout as he went in front alone.

A 15 footer on the next one gave him a cushion. He was within 12 feet of the flag on the final hole, but left it just a few inches short.

Carr To Challenge Rugged Stander

. . . TOPPED BONAVENA IN 1963

Two weeks from tonight, Stander will meet Lee Carr of New York, who has a record of 11-7. In 1963, Carr won the National AAU heavyweight title and then beat Argentina's Oscar Bonavena for the Pan-American Games heavyweight crown.

Since turning pro, Carr has fought at Madison Square Garden seven times. His opponents have included James J. Woodie, Eddie Vick, Billy Joiner, Tony Doyle Bob Stallings and Charlie (The Emperor) Harris.

Carr beat Harris in his last fight; Harris is the only man to hold a victory over Texan Jim Elder who has made two recent Omaha appearances.

Stander weighed 218 pounds for his April 23 fight with Spencer and is expected to be in good condition for Carr. He will be risking a mark of 16-0-1 and a possible rematch with Spencer when he enters the ring two weeks from tonight.

Chadron Shooter Captures 2nd In National Meet

Linn Creek, Mo. (AP) — Jim Poindexter of Southern California outlasted Jim Carlisle of Chadron State College in a 25-bird shootoff Sunday in the individual trap competition of the collegiate trap and skeet championships.

In the women's division, Sherri Coleman of Chadron paced the trapshooters with a 169, while Jaqueline Ramsay of Trinity of San Antonio, Tex., led the skeet competitors with 193.

Cubs Find Out—Mack's Back As Expos Roll To 7-3 Win

. . . A'S HAVE ORIOLES SINGING 'CATFISH BLUES'

By Associated Press

Mack Jones made his return to the lineup an auspicious one, walloping two home runs to drive in five runs and pace the Montreal Expos to a come-from-behind 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

The Expos' left fielder, making his first start since April 11, slammed a two-run homer in the fourth and Bob Bailey followed with a solo shot to tie the game 3-3. Then Jones followed a single and a walk in the fifth with a blast that put Montreal on top 6-3. Jim Hickman hit a two-run homer for the Cubs.

In other action, the New York Mets jumped on St. Louis 9-5, Minnesota edged Washington 6-5 in 10 innings, Philadelphia nipped Houston 2-1, Milwaukee bombed Boston 6-1, Kansas City dumped Detroit 6-2, Cleveland topped California 4-1. The New York Yankees smacked the Chicago White Sox 6-1, San Diego blitzed Cincinnati 7-2 and Pittsburgh clobbered Los Angeles 11-5.

Willie Montanez' double and a two-out single by Tim McCarver in the ninth inning lifted the Phillies over the Astros.

Gail Hopkins' bases-loaded triple and solo homer paced the Royals past the Tigers, who got a two-run blast from Norm Cash

Ted Uhlaender's two runs batted in on a single and double enabled the Indians to snap a four-game losing string. Alan Foster held the Angels to seven hits.

The Pirates exploded for eight runs in the eighth highlighted by Gene Clines' two doubles and a three-run double by Charlie Sands.

NASCAR Race Done In By Dust

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — After two crashes, blamed on dusty track conditions, the NASCAR-Lincoln 100-mile Grand American race on the State Fairgrounds mile oval was postponed after 24 laps Sunday.

The race was rescheduled for next Sunday by officials, who said the dirt track will be chemically treated.

A spinout in clouds of dust caused six racers to crash on the second lap. Two were able to continue the race. There were no injuries.

Foreman-Peralta Heads Triple Card

By Associated Press

George Foreman, the leading challenger for Joe Frazier's world title, and a pair of former World Boxing Association champions will fight tonight in a heavyweight tripleheader that will be seen on closed circuit television from three locations.

The highlight of the program, presented by K.O. Inc. at 130 locations in the United States and Canada, will be a scheduled 15-rounder between the unbeaten Foreman, of Hayward, Calif., and Gregorio Peralta of Argentina at Oakland. It will start at approximately 9:45 p.m. C.D.T

Foreman, who has scored 24 knockouts in his 27 victories, outpointed Peralta in 10 rounds on the night Frazier knocked out Jimmy Ellis in New York Feb. 16, 1970. Peralta has won 79 pro fights against five losses and eight draws.

The first fight on the card will be a 10 rounder between Ernie Terrell, of Chicago, a former WBA champion, and Luis Pires of Brazil, which is set for 8:15 p.m. CDT in Chicago.

Ellis, a former WBA king from Louisville, will take on rugged George Chuvalo of Canada in the second fight, a 10-rounder in Toronto.

Tossed Towel, 'Excess Love' Fatal Blows To Benvenuti

Monte Carlo (AP) — Carlos Monzon's boxing horizon was bright and broader Sunday while Nino Benvenuti pondered a doubtful ring future and reflected on a towel and a manager's love.

"For an excess of love — he had not understood that I was in perfect shape and ready to continue," Benvenuti said of manager Bruno Amaduzzi's act of throwing a towel into the ring after Benvenuti was knocked down by Monzon in the third round of their title fight Saturday night.

As the result — a technical knockout at 1:05 of the third round — was announced, Benvenuti stood in the center of the ring crying and his wife Cuiliana, rushed through the ropes screaming.

"The referee lost control of the fight," said Arthur Mercante of New York, referee for the Ali-Frazier fight and a judge here.

"He should not have stopped the fight when the manager threw in the towel. This was a championship fight. He should have made Benvenuti get in there and fight.

Benvenuti also was floored in the second round and there still was confusion Sunday as to whether Avendano actually counted either time Benvenuti went down.

Benvenuti said there was no count in the second round, but Tito Lectorure, an Argentine matchmaker, said there was an eight count.

Benvenuti said he wanted a little time to think about his next move, but some of his closest advisers felt that four defeats in the last five fights clearly indicated the 33-year-old former champion should retire.

Beile Still Fair Following Car Accident

Omaha (AP) — The assistant track coach at Doane College, Fred Beile, 39, was reported in fair condition at an Omaha hospital Sunday following a two-car crash.

Four members of the Doane track team were treated and released while 19-year-old Kent Heeringa was hospitalized with face and head injuries.

The driver of the other car, Mrs. Nelda Hopkins, 32, of Millard, also was in fair condition Sunday. She had been listed as serious.

Canadiens Topple Black Hawks, 4-2

Montreal (AP) — Flamboyant Frank Mahovlich fired two goals to tie a Stanley Cup record, and led a Montreal comeback Sunday that gained the Canadiens a 4-2 victory in the third game of their National Hockey League championship series against the Chicago Black Hawks.

The victory in the nationally televised game left the Canadiens trailing the best-of-7 series 2-1 with game four set for Montreal Tuesday night and game five in Chicago Thursday night.

The two goals gave Mahovlich 13 for the playoffs this year, tying the record set by Boston's Phil Esposito last season.

The Canadiens outplayed Chicago by a wide margin but had to battle from behind after surrendering a pair of first period goals. Only some standout goaltending by Chicago's Tony Esposito held Montreal at bay but eventually the Candiens broke through.

After the Mahovlich brothers, first Pete and then Frank, scored to tie the game in the middle period, Montreal took total control in the final period.

He fought off two checks and threw a perfect pass to Yvan Cournoyer camped on Esposito's doorstep. Cournoyer had time enough to aim his shot. He did just that and didn't miss.

When Harper's assist was announced, the fickle Montreal fans gave him a standing ovation.

In front for the first time, the Canadiens pressed their advantage and Frank Mahovlich scored his second goal of the game on a power play to complete the scoring. It was the third for the family and it was the goal scored by kid brother Pete that got Montreal started.

France Tops Sweden In Davis Cup Play

Baastad, Sweden (AP) — Patrick Proisy and Piere Barthes won singles matches Sunday as France routed Sweden 5-0 in Davis Cup tennis elimination play.

Proisy beat Hans Nerell 6-2, 6-3 and 6-1 while Barthes defeated Ove Bengtsson 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Royals Nip 89ers, 4-3

Oklahoma City (AP) — The Omaha Royals edged Oklahoma City, 4-3, Sunday in a drizzly American Association baseball match.

Duke Sims gave the 89ers a 2-0 lead with his first homer of the season in the second inning and rookie righthander Bill Greif made it good until the fifth, when the Royals picked up two runs.

Catcher John Sullivan opened with a double, and then Greif walked Ken Huebner. After two outs, shortstop Ray Busse dropped Bob Floyd's grounder and the throw to second got away. That scored Sullivan and put Huebner on third.

Off-Track Betting May Be Hurting Average Handle

New York (AP) — The nightly mutuel handle at Roosevelt Raceway has declined since the New York City Off-Track Betting Corp. started taking bets on races at the track April 3, the Council of New York State Harness Tracks said Sunday.

The Council said Roosevelt averaged $2,153,986 per program for 31 programs from March 3-Apirl 7 including one card curtailed after two races by a snow storm April 7.

In the first 26 cards through last Friday since OTB went into operation the average handle has been $2,089,954, the Council reported.

THE PADDOCK

Pitcher Or Outfielder?

Gene Stohs is either a pitcher with a high enough batting average to play outfield or an outfielder with a good enough pitching arm to hurl.

That's the situation confronting the Grand Island junior on the Nebraska baseball team not only for the final six games this season but for next year and the future.

Husker coach Tony Sharpe was counting on Stohs to be one of his mainstays on the mound this season. But in NU's season's opener at Houston against Houston University, a line drive roared back at Stohs on the pitching mound that, as was discovered later, broke his middle finger on his left hand — his pitching hand.

"I kept playing with it for the next two weeks," he says, "but then I had it x-rayed and it was broken. It feels fine now but I have it taped all the time as a precautionary measure."

Even with limited use of the finger, he has compiled a 1-1 won-loss pitching record with a sparkling 1.69 ERA and a .313 batting average (second highest for NU going into last weekend's series at Oklahoma).

Although he has not pitched since the early part of the season, the 6-0, 165-pounder is really not anxious to hurl for NU or in his future baseball career.

"I really don't want to pitch that much," he explains. "I'd rather play everyday. I feel more relaxed in the outfield than I do when I'm pitching."

Skips Oakland Offer

After he was graduated from Grand Island Senior High in the summer of 1968, the Oakland A's of the American League offered him a bonus to pitch for their organization. But Stohs bypassed that offer to attend Nebraska and work towards his college degree.

Now, he says the scouts that have expressed an interest in him are more concerned with his batting average, speed on the bases and outfielding than his pitching.

"I'll play anyplace that the coach wants to play here at NU," he says, "but the scouts tell me that they want me as an outfielder so I would kind of like to play outfield and get experience there."

The 20-year-old pre-medicine major was one of the main reasons why NU jumped from last place in 1969 in the Big Eight to third last season. He earned a 2-2 record pitching and swatted a fine .310 average as Nebraska boasted an 11-8 league record last year.

Stohs, who jokingly says he has been playing baseball since he was three-years-old, doesn't take a vacation in the summer after the Huskers complete their season.

Last summer, he played with the Liberal (Kan.) Beejays who earned a berth in the national semi-pro tournament in Wichita. This summer he heads north to play with the Anchorage Glacier Pilots, also a semi-pro team, presumably as an outfielder.

"I'm kind of anxious to go up there and see what Alaska is like and also play baseball," he says.

While Sharpe has lost a pitcher who was expected to be his top left-hander this season, he gained a swift basebrunner and outfielder. Either way, NU has benefited.

Improvement Evident In Prep Track Chart

. . . GREENO EQUALS SECOND-FASTEST MILE IN STATE HISTORY

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The high school top ten chart for the eight individual running events has just one new leader this week when compared to last week's lists, but a lot of newcomers and improvement by previous pacesetters is evident.

The most exciting changes came in the Lincoln City Public School championships when Northeast's Ron Greeno and Cliff Karthauser, already at the top of the mile and two-mile lists, dramatically lowered their statewide leading times.

Greeno equalled the second-fastest mile ever run in Nebraska history with a 4:16.1 clocking, just a tenth of a second back of the alltime leading 4:16.0 which Grand Island's Lynn Hall recorded while winning the state meet last spring.

Karthauser toured the gruelling eight-lap race in 9:35.4, six seconds faster than his previous best. It became the sixth-swiftest in state prep history.

The new leader is Grand Island's Steve Buckner who zipped over the low hurdles in :19.5 at the Big Ten meet over the weekend.

Leaders, Page 12

Two others came up with superb performances to tie pacesetters who had previously enjoyed the No. 1 position alone.

Terry Bender of Class D Humphrey sped to a :09.7 clocking in the 100-yard dash and now shares the top spot with Hastings' Art Smith.

The other came in the 120-yard high hurdles. Omaha Tech's Howard Beacham skimmed the tall barriers in :14.2, equalling the top statewide time of South Sioux City's Scott Beerman.

The biggest general shuffling took place in the mile. In addition to Greeno's spectacular run, four others from last week's top ten also turned in best-of-the-season performances.

And another quartet, not previously in the top ten, came up with times qualifying them for the select group.

But this is the week when top ten times, recorded earlier in the year, have little meaning. It's district elimination meet time.

In 28 district meets across the state the entries for the state meet will be determined. In the four Class A groupings the first four finishers in each individual event and the first and second placers in the relays will qualify for the state meet.

In the six Class B meets it will be the first three places in the individual events and the two top relay teams, while in the nine Class C and nine class D affairs just the first two finishers in the individual events and the winning relay team will move on to the state meet in Kearney, May 21-22.

Carr To Challenge Rugged Stander

Two weeks from tonight, Stander will meet Lee Carr of New York, who has a record of 11-7. In 1963, Carr won the National AAU heavyweight title and then beat Argentina's Oscar Bonavena for the Pan-American Games heavyweight crown.

Stander weighed 218 pounds for his April 23 fight with Spencer and is expected to be in good condition for Carr. He will be risking a mark of 16-0-1 and a possible rematch with Spencer when he enters the ring two weeks from tonight.

Birdies Mean Repeat Win

. . . 33RD TOUR VICTORY

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus burst out of a closely bunched field with birdies on three of the last four holes Sunday and repeated as the champion in the $125,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Nicklaus had a final-round 66, four under par on the rain-drenched Preston Trail Golf Club course, and posted a 72-hole total of 274 in scoring his second victory in as many starts.

Nicklaus, the only three-time winner on the pro tour this year, won the Tournament of Champions two weeks ago to go with an earlier victory in the PGA National Campionship.

It was the 33rd tour victory in Nicklaus' fantastic professional career and pushed his leading money winnings for the season to $131,776.

The field was closely bunched before the Golden Bear made his move with three consecutive birdies starting on the 14th hole — a drive that gave him a two-stroke victory in this tournament that he won a year ago when he bested Arnold Palmer in a sudden-death playoff.

At one time or another nine players shared the lead in the final round that was delayed almost two hours by a pair of thunderstorms that threatened to wash out the day's play.

But Nicklaus, the 31-year-old giant who is the only man ever to win all the world's major titles two times, solved that when he rapped in birdie putts of 25, 12 and 15 feet on consecutive holes down the stretch.

Long shot Jerry McGee, the first-round leader who rallied with a brilliant 65 on the final round, finished in a tie for second with Frank Beard, winner of last week's New Orleans Open. Each had a 276 total, Beard with a final round 67.

Masters champion Charles Coody, the leader going into the darkly-overcast day, had a final 71 for 278 and was alone at that figure. He bogeyed the final hole.

Bert Yancey, 67, Bobby Nichols, 69, and Lee Trevino, 71, were next at 269. Palmer, just two strokes back of the leader going into final round play, never got it going and finished at 281 after a 72.

There was considerable doubt that the day's play would be completed. The lightning-laced thunderstorms caused two major delays and the round was played under the threat of a tornado watch.

The long delay extended the television time by about two hours and had announcers searching desperately for things to say —even going to a videotape rerun of Nicklaus' victory over Palmer the year before.

He stayed in position when he laced an iron to within less than six inches on the eighth hole for his first birdie, then, almost as if he were bidding his time until he got into camera range, he parred around to the 15th.

He was in a three-way tie for second at that point, but caught McGee, already in the clubhouse, when he holed it from 25 feet. That put him four under par for the tournament.

Nicklaus ripped an iron to 12 feet on the next hole and calmly knocked it into the center of the cup. The surprisingly large gallery, huddled under umbrellas and wearing rain gear, let out a shout as he went in front alone.

A 15 footer on the next one gave him a cushion. He was within 12 feet of the flag on the final hole, but left it just a few inches short.

Chadron Shooter Captures 2nd In National Meet

Linn Creek, Mo. (AP) — Jim Poindexter of Southern California outlasted Jim Carlisle of Chadron State College in a 25-bird shootoff Sunday in the individual trap competition of the collegiate trap and skeet championships.

In the women's division, Sherri Coleman of Chadron paced the trapshooters with a 169, while Jaqueline Ramsay of Trinity of San Antonio, Tex., led the skeet competitors with 193.

The five-man St. John's team posted a winning total of 934 targets out of 1,000 to take the trapshooting crown. Army won the skeet title with a score of 944.

Tossed Towel, 'Excess Love' Fatal Blows To Benvenuti

Monte Carlo (AP) — Carlos Monzon's boxing horizon was bright and broader Sunday while Nino Benvenuti pondered a doubtful ring future and reflected on a towel and a manager's love.

"For an excess of love — he had not understood that I was in perfect shape and ready to continue," Benvenuti said of manager Bruno Amaduzzi's act of throwing a towel into the ring after Benvenuti was knocked down by Monzon in the third round of their title fight Saturday night.

When Argentine referee Victor Avendano saw the towel, he stopped the fight, awarding it to defending champion Monzon, also of Argentina.

As the result — a technical knockout at 1:05 of the third round — was announced, Benvenuti stood in the center of the ring crying and his wife Cuiliana, rushed through the ropes screaming.

For the 29-year-old Monzon, who won the title by knocking out Benvenuti in the 12th round last November in Rome, the victory could mean a title defense against former champion Emile Griffith in New York. Teddy Brenner, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, reportedly has offered Monzon $100,000 for such a fight.

"The referee lost control of the fight," said Arthur Mercante of New York, referee for the Ali-Frazier fight and a judge here.

"He should not have stopped the fight when the manager threw in the towel. This was a championship fight. He should have made Benvenuti get in there and fight.

Benvenuti also was floored in the second round and there still was confusion Sunday as to whether Avendano actually counted either time Benvenuti went down.

Benvenuti said there was no count in the second round, but Tito Lectorure, an Argentine matchmaker, said there was an eight count.

Benvenuti said he wanted a little time to think about his next move, but some of his closest advisers felt that four defeats in the last five fights clearly indicated the 33-year-old former champion should retire.

Royals Nip 89ers, 4-3

Oklahoma City (AP) — The Omaha Royals edged Oklahoma City, 4-3, Sunday in a drizzly American Association baseball match.

Duke Sims gave the 89ers a 2-0 lead with his first homer of the season in the second inning and rookie righthander Bill Greif made it good until the fifth, when the Royals picked up two runs.

Catcher John Sullivan opened with a double, and then Greif walked Ken Huebner. After two outs, shortstop Ray Busse dropped Bob Floyd's grounder and the throw to second got away. That scored Sullivan and put Huebner on third.

Cubs Find Out—Mack's Back As Expos Roll To 7-3 Win

. . . A'S HAVE ORIOLES SINGING 'CATFISH BLUES'

By Associated Press

Mack Jones made his return to the lineup an auspicious one, walloping two home runs to drive in five runs and pace the Montreal Expos to a come-from-behind 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

The Expos' left fielder, making his first start since April 11, slammed a two-run homer in the fourth and Bob Bailey followed with a solo shot to tie the game 3-3. Then Jones followed a single and a walk in the fifth with a blast that put Montreal on top 6-3. Jim Hickman hit a two-run homer for the Cubs.

In other action, the New York Mets jumped on St. Louis 9-5, Minnesota edged Washington 6-5 in 10 innings, Philadelphia nipped Houston 2-1, Milwaukee bombed Boston 6-1, Kansas City dumped Detroit 6-2, Cleveland topped California 4-1, The New York Yankees smacked the Chicago White Sox 6-1, San Diego blitzed Cincinnati 7-2 and Pittsburgh clobbered Los Angeles 11-5.

In a pair of doubleheaders San Francisco beat Atlanta 5-2 in the first game and Oakland swept Baltimore 6-2 and 2-1.

Tim Foli drove in four runs in the first two innings with a triple and bases-loaded double as the Mets downed the Cardinals for the sixth straight time.

A pair of singles, an intentional walk and George Mitterwald's single, all with two out in the 10th, gave the Twins their victory over Senators' starter Denny McLain.

Willie Montanez' double and a two-out single by Tim McCarver in the ninth inning lifted the Phillies over the Astros.

Brewers' rookie right-hander Bill Parsons stopped the Red Sox on three hits while Milwaukee scored all six runs in the first.

Gail Hopkins' bases-loaded triple and solo homer paced the Royals past the Tigers, who got a two-run blast from Norm Cash.

Ted Uhlaender's two runs batted in on a single and double enabled the Indians to snap a four-game losing string. Alan Foster held the Angels to seven hits.

Ed Spiezio's bases-loaded triple and homers by Dave Campbell and Bob Barton highlighted the Padres' six-run first-inning outburst against the Reds.

The Pirates exploded for eight runs in the eighth highlighted by Gene Clines' two doubles and a three-run double by Charlie Sands.

Oakland's Jim "Catfish" Hunter checked the Orioles on four hits in the opener, then Vida Blue, also with a four-hitter, hurled his eighth consecutive complete game for the A's.

NASCAR Race Done In By Dust

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — After two crashes, blamed on dusty track conditions, the NASCAR-Lincoln 100-mile Grand American race on the State Fairgrounds mile oval was postponed after 24 laps Sunday.

The race was rescheduled for next Sunday by officials, who said the dirt track will be chemically treated.

A spinout in clouds of dust caused six racers to crash on the second lap. Two were able to continue the race. There were no injuries.

Canadiens Topple Black Hawks, 4-2

Montreal (AP) — Flamboyant Frank Mahovlich fired two goals to tie a Stanley Cup record, and led a Montreal comeback Sunday that gained the Canadiens a 4-2 victory in the third game of their National Hockey League championship series against the Chicago Black Hawks.

The victory in the nationally televised game left the Canadiens trailing the best-of-7 series 2-1 with game four set for Montreal Tuesday night and game five in Chicago Thursday night.

The two goals gave Mahovlich 13 for the playoffs this year, tying the record set by Boston's Phil Esposito last season.

The Canadiens outplayed Chicago by a wide margin but had to battle from behind after surrendering a pair of first period goals. Only some standout goaltending by Chicago's Tony Esposito held Montreal at bay but eventually the Candiens broke through.

After the Mahovlich brothers, first Pete and then Frank, scored to tie the game in the middle period, Montreal took total control in the final period.

Defenseman Terry Harper, booed all game long, set up the tie-breaker with a rink-length dash.

He fought off two checks and threw a perfect pass to Yvan Cournoyer camped on Esposito's doorstep. Cournoyer had time enough to aim his shot. He did just that and didn't miss.

When Harper's assist was announced, the fickle Montreal fans gave him a standing ovation.

In front for the first time, the Canadiens pressed their advantage and Frank Mahovlich scored his second goal of the game on a power play to complete the scoring. It was the third for the family and it was the goal scored by kid brother Pete that got Montreal started.

Foreman-Peralta Heads Triple Card

By Associated Press

George Foreman, the leading challenger for Joe Frazier's world title, and a pair of former World Boxing Association champions will fight tonight in a heavyweight tripleheader that will be seen on closed circuit television from three locations.

The highlight of the program, presented by K.O. Inc. at 130 locations in the United States and Canada, will be a scheduled 15-rounder between the unbeaten Foreman, of Hayward, Calif., and Gregorio Peralta of Argentina at Oakland. It will start at approximately 9:45 p.m. C.D.T.

Foreman, who has scored 24 knockouts in his 27 victories, outpointed Peralta in 10 rounds on the night Frazier knocked out Jimmy Ellis in New York Feb. 16, 1970. Peralta has won 79 pro fights against five losses and eight draws.

The first fight on the card will be a 10 rounder between Ernie Terrell, of Chicago, a former WBA champion, and Luis Pires of Brazil, which is set for 8:15 p.m. CDT in Chicago.

Ellis, a former WBA king from Louisville, will take on rugged George Chuvalo of Canada in the second fight, a 10-rounder in Toronto.

Piles Of $$ Almost Counted After Ali-Frazier Match-Up

. . . RED-LETTER TAKE FOR PROMOTERS, IRS

The New York Times

New York — Two months after the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali heavyweight title fight, the money is almost all counted.

Eventually the Internal Revenue Service will know the precise numbers. but the worldwide gross receipts have been established at $20 million by Jack Kent Cooke, who provided $4.5 million of the $5 million shared equally by the fighters. According to Cooke, the profit before taxes was $1.5 million for him and Jerry Perenchio, the closed-circuit TV entrepreneur.

"After taxes," Cooke said yesterday by telephone from his Glennville, Calif., ranch, "the profit was about $750,000 — not dissimilar to what we anticipated."

Cooke disclosed that he received 60 per cent of the profits. with Perenchio collecting 40 per cent. On that basis. Cooke cleared $450,000 — a return of 10 cents on the dollar for his $4.5 million investment. Perenchio cleared $300,000 as his share.

Additional profit for Cooke, the owner of the basketball Lakers and the hockey Kings in Los Angeles, was produced by his ownership of closed-circuit TV rights throughout Southern California.

"The financial breakdown of the fight was very gratifying." Cooke said. "The gross. which was in the neighborhood of $20 million, matched our expectations. We're not the least bit disappointed."

With its $20 million gross, the Frazier-Ali bout attracted about 4½ times as much as the previous boxing record, according to The Ring Record book — the $4,747,690 in total receipts for the second Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout in Las Vegas in 1963.

Cooke predicted that a Frazier-Ali rematch is likely early next year, pending the United States Supreme Court decision on Ali's appealed draft-refusal conviction.

"But not at the same prices," Cooke said, thinking of each fighter's $2.5 million fee. "Last time, we had a unique situation — two unbeaten heavyweights, each considered to be a champion. Next time, we'll have a challenger and a champion."

Cooke has an option to promote a rematch at The Forum in Inglewood, Calif., where the Lakers and Kings play. He acknowledged that if a rematch developed, he would want it there. There have been reports that each fighter has been guaranteed $750,000 for a rematch, but Frazier's manager, Yancey Durham, already has balked at that price.

Since the March 8 bout, there have been whispers in boxing circles that Cooke and Perenchio had split. Cooke reportedly was furious over Perenchio's delay in permitting the armed forces radio network to broadcast the bout. He also was annoyed at several of Perenchio's business deals, and at the amount of Perenchio's publicity, compared to his.

But Cooke said:

"I was very happy with Jerry Perenchio. I would be happy to work with him the next time."

Perenchio, in Europe on a vacation, was unavailable for comment on the finances. But his associate, Robin French, a partner of Perenchio's at Chartwell Artists, Ltd., in Los Angeles, reported that the complete audit of the worldwide receipts might not be finished for another month.

Top Four Horses In Derby Listed In Pimlico Field

Baltimore (AP) — Eleven 3-year-olds firmed up Sunday including Kentucky Derby winner Canonero II, as a probable field for the 96th running of the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

The probable field, according to Pimlico officials, also included Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French, William A. Levin's Bold Reason and Calumet Farm's Eastern Fleet, the second, third and fourth finishers respectively, in the Derby.

Also listed by the track were Gustave Ring's Sound Off, October House Farm's Executioner and Brookmeade Stable's Limit To Reason, W. P. Rosso's Impetuosity, by J. McCloy Davis' Royal S. D., Oliver Goldsmith's Leematt and Charles Fritz and Betty Sechrest's Vegas Vic.

Lee Roy Tangles Wth Indy Wall In Practice Run

Indianapolis (AP) — Lee Roy Yarbrough's car tangled with the wall in the first serious accident of the month at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Sunday, but the southern stock car ace escaped serious injury.

Yarbrough, 32, Columbia, S.C., suffered a small burn on the hand and one on the back of the neck. He was treated at the track hospital and released.

The yellow light flashed on and off all day as 34 drivers and 32 cars made it onto the track in the eighth day of practice for the May 19th Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Parsons Wins Halifax 100

Parsons, driving a 1970 Ford started the $8,000, 100-mile event from the outside pole position.

He battled Grand National champion Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., who started the race from the inside pole with a track qualifying record of 81.548 miles per hour, for 247 laps before Isaac's engine finally let go as he led by almost a lap.

Parsons took command at this point and led the remaining 34 laps. He was in front on one other occasion for eight laps on an exchange of pit stops with Isaac.

Brewers Recall Al Yates, Option Rookie Slaton

Milwaukee (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers Sunday optioned rookie pitcher Jim Slaton to their Evansville farm club in the American Association and recalled outfielder Al Yates.

Slaton, 20, with only one full season of minor league ball behind him, appeared in three games with the Brewers, twice as a starter. He pitched six innings of shutout ball against the Chicago White Sox in his first major league start, getting the victory in a 2-0 decision.

Yates was acquired by the Brewers last winter from Boston. He hit .343 with five doubles, four home runs and 10 runs batted in during his first 18 games at Evansville.

Piles Of $$ Almost Counted After Ali-Frazier Match-Up

. . . RED-LETTER TAKE FOR PROMOTERS, IRS

©The New York Times

New York — Two months after the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali heavyweight title fight, the money is almost all counted.

Eventually the Internal Revenue Service will know the precise numbers, but the worldwide gross receipts have been established at $20 million by Jack Kent Cooke, who provided $4.5 million of the $5 million shared equally by the fighters. According to Cooke, the profit before taxes was $1.5 million for him and Jerry Perenchio, the closed-circuit TV entrepreneur.

"After taxes," Cooke said yesterday by telephone from his Glennville, Calif., ranch, "the profit was about $750,000 — not dissimilar to what we anticipated."

Cooke disclosed that he received 60 per cent of the profits, with Perenchio collecting 40 per cent. On that basis, Cooke cleared $450,000 — a return of 10 cents on the dollar for his $4.5 million investment. Perenchio cleared $300,000 as his share.

Additional profit for Cooke, the owner of the basketball Lakers and the hockey Kings in Los Angeles, was produced by his ownership of closed-circuit TV rights throughout Southern California.

"The financial breakdown of the fight was very gratifying," Cooke said. "The gross, which was in the neighborhood of $20 million, matched our expectations. We're not the least bit disappointed."

With its $20 million gross, the Frazier-Ali bout attracted about 4½ times as much as the previous boxing record, according to The Ring Record book — the $4,747,690 in total receipts for the second Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout in Las Vegas in 1963.

Cooke predicted that a Frazier-Ali rematch is likely early next year, pending the United States Supreme Court decision on Ali's appealed draft-refusal conviction.

"But not at the same prices," Cooke said, thinking of each fighter's $2.5 million fee. "Last time, we had a unique situation — two unbeaten heavyweights, each considered to be a champion. Next time, we'll have a challenger and a champion."

Cooke has an option to promote a rematch at The Forum in Inglewood, Calif., where the Lakers and Kings play. He acknowledged that if a rematch developed, he would want it there. There have been reports that each fighter has been guaranteed $750,000 for a rematch, but Frazier's manager, Yancey Durham, already has balked at that price.

Since the March 8 bout, there have been whispers in boxing circles that Cooke and Perenchio had split. Cooke reportedly was furious over Perenchio's delay in permitting the armed forces radio network to broadcast the bout. He also was annoyed at several of Perenchio's business deals, and at the amount of Perenchio's publicity, compared to his.

But Cooke said:

"I was very happy with Jerry Perenchio. I would be happy to work with him the next time."

Perenchio, in Europe on a vacation, was unavailable for comment on the finances. But his associate, Robin French, a partner of Perenchio's at Chartwell Artists, Ltd., in Los Angeles, reported that the complete audit of the worldwide receipts might not be finished for another month.

Hoover Accused Of Breaking Laws

Washington (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Sunday accused J. Edgar Hoover of violating the law in an attempt to discredit an airline pilot who criticized the FBI.

McGovern demanded a Senate investigation into the case which involved the Trans World Airlines pilot whose plane was hijacked from Los Angeles to Rome.

The senator and presidential aspirant said Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., chairman of the board of TWA, confirmed that Hoover wrote the airline about the Air Force record of the pilot, Donald J. Cook Jr.

FBI Action Criticized

Cook criticizied an FBI attempt to block the hijacking while the plane was refueling in New York, saying it was "a prescription for getting the entire crew killed and the plane destroyed."

When he first complained about the case three weeks ago, McGovern said Hoover responded with an attempt "to destroy the career of Captain Cook."

'Difficulties In Air Force'

McGovern said Tillinghast wrote him on April 28 confirming Hoover's intervention. "Following the incident in question, we received a communication from Mr. Hoover touching, among other things, on Capt. Cook's difficulties in the Air Force prior to his employment with TWA,' Tillinghast said.

A McGovern aide said the difficulty involved Cook's Air Force flight training record.

"Our response to Mr. Hoover noted that TWA did not concur with the remarks attributed to Capt. Cook but took no position with respect to his record with the airline," Tillinghast wrote McGovern. "In fact, however, Captain Cook's record as a TWA pilot has been entirely satisfactory."

Tillinghast declined to give McGovern a copy of the Hoover letter, but said he would do so in response "to an appropriate subpoena."

Investigation Asked

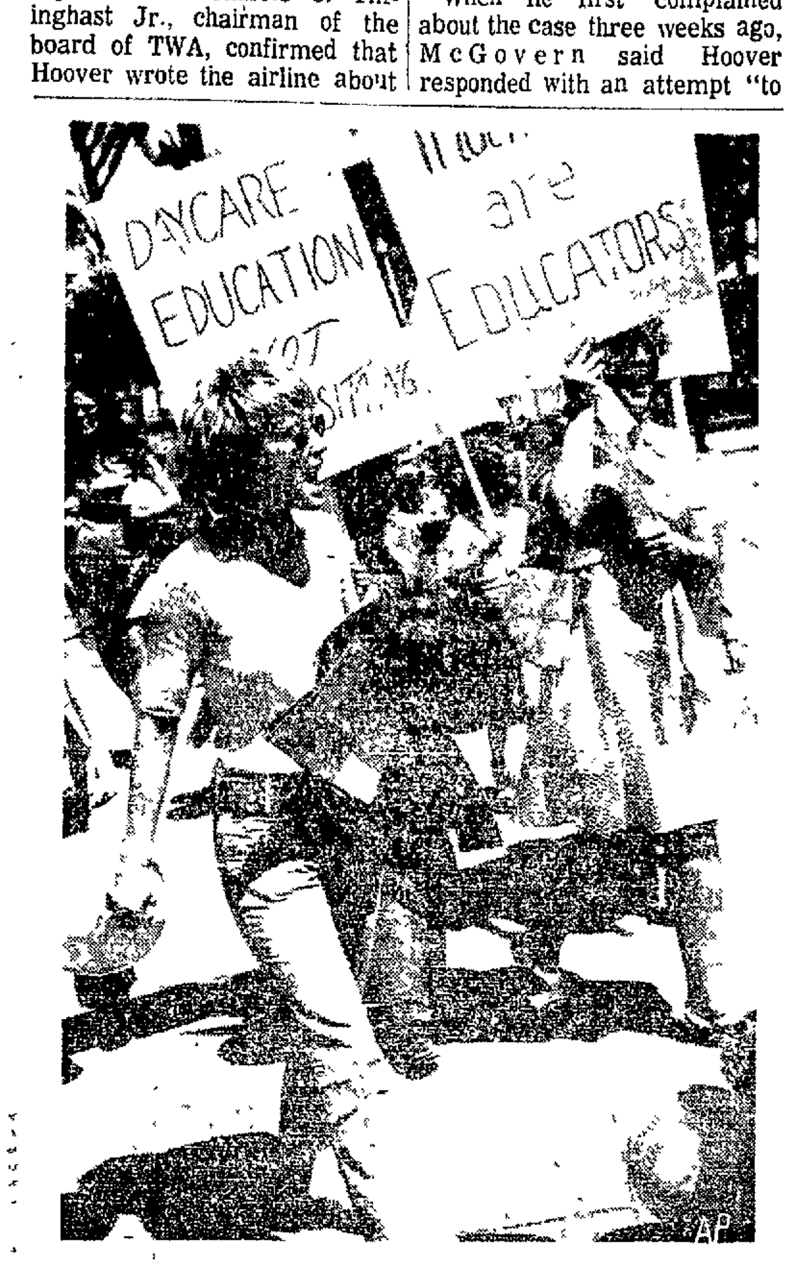
McGovern said he wrote Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights, saying the case provides the basis for an investigation, and asking for an inquiry into FBI investigative and surveillance activities.

McGovern said Hoover's action isolated the civil rights act, the First Amendment right to free speech, the Ninth Amendment right to privacy, and Air Force regulations covering disclosure of personnel information.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., meanwhile defended Hoover and the FBI. He said attacks in the news media and "by politically ambitious individuals" are designed to force Hoover out of his job as FBI director.

"A secondary aim is to discredit the FBI as an institution in order to hamper its investigations into the numerous revolutonary groups that continue to advocate violence and illegal disruption of society," Thurmond said in a report to his constituents.

"The FBI has shown judgment and restraint where judgment and restraint were needed," Thurmond said. "It has shown courage and daring where these qualities were needed."



MARCH FOR CHILD CARE

Women Say Americans Killed 60 Viet Villagers

Nghia Hanh, Vietnam (AP) — Five Vietnamese women say the Americans came in the morning and burned the houses, came back in the afternoon and killed 60 people in two groups, then bombed the ivllage.

They said this happened one day in April, 1969, in the farm hamlet of Truong Khanh 2, about 20 miles south of Quang Ngai in the north.

It agrees in some respects and disagrees in others with the account given by a former U.S. Army sergeant, Danny Spencer Notley. He testified before an informal congressional committee April 28 that men of his unit killed 30 civilians in Truong Khanh in revenge for the booby trap death of a soldier.

Popular Soldier

Notley, 23, of St. Paul, Minn., said the incident occurred April 18 1969. He recounted that after a popular soldier was killed by the booby trap, a lieutenant declared: "There's a village over there, and there's people in it, and they're responsible for it. I want some kills."

Following this, Notley told an unofficial panel headed by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., that his squad and several volunteers — about 10 men in all — entered the village and systematically killed 30 unresisting women and children.

18 Found

They also show that a bombing strike was flown in the Truong Khanh 2 area on April 18 and that the following day, a U.S. reconnaissance patrol found 18 bodies of Vietnamese men of military age, plus a wounded boy and a girl, in the hamlet. Both children were evacuated by helicopter.

The women, their faces weathered and expressionless, told their version of the incident Sunday at a resettlement site near this village, a short distance from now deserted Truong Khanh.

Only one of the five claimed to have been in the hamlet when the Americans came. The rest were working in rice fields nearby and said they saw or heard noise and shooting.

Girl Protected

"I saw the Americans come into the village. They burned our houses, then killed the people," said Mrs. Nguyen Thi Mam, 60, who cares for a five-year-old girl whose mother was shot.

Mrs. Mam asserted the little girl's mother "protected her by covering her with her body." That night, she continued, surviving villagers found the girl and also a boy, who was wounded, and took them both to another hamlet nearby.

Mrs. Ho Thi Cho, 59, said her husband and two children were among the victims.

"The Americans came to our village about three times a month, but there never was any trouble," she added. "They just walked through and looked in our houses."

She said most adults, including herself, were in the fields on the day in question and the only ones left in the hamlet were old people and children.

"I heard a lot of noise from the village and then I saw our houses burn, maybe 30 of them," she related. "Later in the day, the Americans came and killed the young people and children.

"I was too frightened to go back . . . When I returned to the village that night, I saw the bodies where we piled wood for cooking. They had been shot and burned."

Children Killed

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Thai, 48, said her daughter, 14, and a son 12 were killed.

"I was out working in the fields when about 9 a.m. I heard a lot of noise and screams coming from the village," she said. "I looked that way and saw our houses burning. I was scared. I was afraid to return.

"Later in the afternoon I saw the Americans return to the village. I heard many shots. I stayed out in the fields until night time, then returned and saw the bodies. They were burned."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Mai, 52, said she also was in the fields but could see American soldiers in the hamlet.

"In the afternoon, they took 30 people from several houses where they were hiding and shot them," she recalled. "Then they went to several other houses and took about 30 others outside, old people and children, and shot them. Then they burned the bodies."

Cash Register Thieves Sought

Lincoln police are searching for two men who took approximately $700 from cash registers at the Safeway store at 23rd and O and the King Dollar store at 839 No. 27th Friday night.

Police said that at both stores entrance to the cash registers was gained by opening a plate on the rear of the machines and hitting the release buttons.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Demonstration Dramatizes Problems Of Free Nations

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Capacity To Co-Exist

Nations and private enterprises wax and wane.

Adolf Hitler in his ignorance boasted that he was determining history for a thousand years, but after a generation even memory of him dims and his ideas have been rejected.

The mass efforts last week of anti-war demonstrators to disrupt the processes of U.S. Government on the streets of Washington dramatize the new problems which free nations face in their co-existence with police states.

President Nixon knows that, when he speaks to the American people, the enemy at Hanoi is listening. What is being tested now is the capacity of governments of radically different rules to co-exist. To be specific, there is strong dissent in this country to the Nixon policy of withholding from publication the dates of withdrawal. It is evident that the Nixon strategy is to retain the advantage of playing poker with a secretive Communist government without stultifying his position by telegraphing his punches in advance.

Advantage Cited

Nixon and his advisers contend that there is an advantage in letting the enemy guess. Sometimes the resultant domestic anguish is exaggerated by fales assumptions of administration objectives and by efforts of the "loyal opposition" to promote doubts.

Nixon has said he will finally withdraw from Vietnam when (a) our prisoners of war are out of North Vietnam and (b) when South Vietnam shows the strength to care for itself.

Cynics assumed that the administration was hoping for a dramatic symbol of success in the war shortly before Election Day in November 1972, but already moves, however ineffective they may prove to be at first, have been made to bring the prisoner issue to a head. As a result of U.S. initiative, Sweden indicates that, if asked, it would house prisoners of both sides temporarily. If the prisoner issue should be resolved, then the second factor of South Vietnamese strength can be faced. This at best will be a matter of judgment, and no political figure in this country can remain viable who does not reflect American interests.

Economic Boon

Certainly none is so blind as not to see that it would be a boon economically to this country to wind down the war. If any reminder was needed, the recent weakness of the dollar in international markets and the attendant rise in the price of gold showed the handwriting on the wall.

The weak position of the United States in respect to international balance of payments is exaggerated by U.S. military establishments in various parts of the world. Vietnam is far from the only place. We still have troops in South Korea, and, despite Europe's recovery, some 26 years after the end of World War II, we are keeping expensive establishments in West Germany and elsewhere.

Since survival in co-existence with Communist police states is involved, the issue has facets other than financial. But, if strategy requires our continuing presence in Middle Europe, then it behooves the Allies to enlarge their share of the financial burden.

Likewise it is whistling in the dark to create the impression that only governmental exploits abroad have caused the balance of payments problem. Inflation and the unwarranted rise in U.S. labor costs have worsted our international competitive position in steel and other products, and have threatened our historic favorable visible balance of trade.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

3 Japanese Die While Climbing High Nepal Peak

Katmandu, Nepal (AP) — Three Japanese mountain climbers perished last Tuesday while trying to scale 24,958-foot Dhaulagiri 5, the Nepalese foreign ministry announced Sunday.

The ministry, quoting a message from the expedition, said Hidenobu Tezuka, 29, Kenichi Aoki, 24, and Toshibumi Yanagisawa, 26, died when they slipped because of physical exhaustion while climbing at an altitude of 23,000 feet.

The message did not say how far the men fell or whether the expedition's remaining five members would continue their attempt to conquer the peak through the previously untried south ridge.

Hoover Accused Of Breaking Laws

Washington (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Sunday accused J. Edgar Hoover of violating the law in an attempt to discredit an airline pilot who criticized the FBI.

McGovern demanded a Senate investigation into the case which involved the Trans World Airlines pilot whose plane was hijacked from Los Angeles to Rome.

The senator and presidential aspirant said Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., chairman of the board of TWA, confirmed that Hoover wrote the airline about the Air Force record of the pilot, Donald J. Cook Jr.

FBI Action Criticized

Cook criticizied an FBI attempt to block the hijacking while the plane was refueling in New York, saying it was "a prescription for getting the entire crew killed and the plane destroyed."

When he first complained about the case three weeks ago, McGovern said Hoover responded with an attempt "to destroy the career of Captain Cook."

'Difficulties In Air Force'

McGovern said Tillinghast wrote him on April 28 confirming Hoover's intervention. "Following the incident in question, we received a communication from Mr. Hoover touching, among other things, on Capt. Cook's difficulties in the Air Force prior to his employment with TWA,' Tillinghast said.

A McGovern aide said the difficulty involved Cook's Air Force flight training record.

"Our response to Mr. Hoover noted that TWA did not concur with the remarks attributed to Capt. Cook but took no position with respect to his record with the airline," Tillinghast wrote McGovern. "In fact, however, Captain Cook's record as a TWA pilot has been entirely satisfactory."

Tillinghast declined to give McGovern a copy of the Hoover letter, but said he would do so in response "to an appropriate subpoena."

Investigation Asked

McGovern said he wrote Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights, saying the case provides the basis for an investigation, and asking for an inquiry into FBI investigative and surveillance activities.

McGovern said Hoover's action isolated the civil rights act, the First Amendment right to free speech, the Ninth Amendment right to privacy, and Air Force regulations covering disclosure of personnel information.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., meanwhile defended Hoover and the FBI. He said attacks in the news media and "by politically ambitious individuals" are designed to force Hoover out of his job as FBI director.

"A secondary aim is to discredit the FBI as an institution in order to hamper its investigations into the numerous revolutonary groups that continue to advocate violence and illegal disruption of society," Thurmond said in a report to his constituents.

"The FBI has shown judgment and restraint where judgment and restraint were needed," Thurmond said. "It has shown courage and daring where these qualities were needed."

MARCH FOR CHILD CARE

Women Say Americans Killed 60 Viet Villagers

Nghia Hanh, Vietnam (AP) — Five Vietnamese women say the Americans came in the morning and burned the houses, came back in the afternoon and killed 60 people in two groups, then bombed the ivllage.

They said this happened one day in April, 1969, in the farm hamlet of Truong Khanh 2, about 20 miles south of Quang Ngai in the north.

It agrees in some respects and disagrees in others with the account given by a former U.S. Army sergeant, Danny Spencer Notley. He testified before an informal congressional committee April 28 that men of his unit killed 30 civilians in Truong Khanh in revenge for the booby trap death of a soldier.

Popular Soldier

Notley, 23, of St. Paul, Minn., said the incident occurred April 18 1969. He recounted that after a popular soldier was killed by the booby trap, a lieutenant declared: "There's a village over there, and there's people in it, and they're responsible for it. I want some kills."

Following this, Notley told an unofficial panel headed by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., that his squad and several volunteers — about 10 men in all — entered the village and systematically killed 30 unresisting women and children.

U.S. military records show that Notley's unit, part of the 11th Infantry Brigade of the Americal Division, suffered one killed and one wounded by a booby trap near the hamlet on April 17.

18 Found

They also show that a bombing strike was flown in the Truong Khanh 2 area on April 18 and that the following day, a U.S. reconnaissance patrol found 18 bodies of Vietnamese men of military age, plus a wounded boy and a girl, in the hamlet. Both children were evacuated by helicopter.

The women, their faces weathered and expressionless, told their version of the incident Sunday at a resettlement site near this village, a short distance from now deserted Truong Khanh.

Only one of the five claimed to have been in the hamlet when the Americans came. The rest were working in rice fields nearby and said they saw or heard noise and shooting.

Girl Protected

"I saw the Americans come into the village. They burned our houses, then killed the people," said Mrs. Nguyen Thi Mam, 68, who cares for a five-year-old girl whose mother was shot.

Mrs. Mam asserted the little girl's mother "protected her by covering her with her body." That night, she continued, surviving villagers found the girl and also a boy, who was wounded, and took them both to another hamlet nearby.

Mrs. Ho Thi Cho, 59, said her husband and two children were among the victims.

"The Americans came to our village about three times a month, but there never was any trouble," she added. "They just walked through and looked in our houses."

She said most adults, including herself, were in the fields on the day in question and the only ones left in the hamlet were old people and children.

"I heard a lot of noise from the village and then I saw our houses burn, maybe 30 of them," she related. "Later in the day, the Americans came and killed the young people and children.

"I was too frightened to go back . . . When I returned to the village that night, I saw the bodies where we piled wood for cooking. They had been shot and burned."

Children Killed

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Thai, 48, said her daughter, 14, and a son 12 were killed.

"I was out working in the fields when about 9 a.m. I heard a lot of noise and screams coming from the village," she said. "I looked that way and saw our houses burning. I was scared. I was afraid to return.

"Later in the afternoon I saw the Americans return to the village. I heard many shots. I stayed out in the fields until night time, then returned and saw the bodies. They were burned."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Mai, 52, said she also was in the fields but could see American soldiers in the hamlet.

"In the afternoon, they took 30 people from several houses where they were hiding and shot them," she recalled. "Then they went to several other houses and took about 30 others outside, old people and children, and shot them. Then they burned the bodies."

Cash Register Thieves Sought

Lincoln police are searching for two men who took approximately $700 from cash registers at the Safeway store at 23rd and O and the King Dollar store at 839 No. 27th Friday night.

Police said that at both stores entrance to the cash registers was gained by opening a plate on the rear of the machines and hitting the release buttons.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Demonstration Dramatizes Problems Of Free Nations

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Capacity To Co-Exist

Nations and private enterprises wax and wane.

Adolf Hitler in his ignorance boasted that he was determining history for a thousand years, but after a generation even memory of him dims and his ideas have been rejected.

The mass efforts last week of anti-war demonstrators to disrupt the processes of U.S. Government on the streets of Washington dramatize the new problems which free nations face in their co-existence with police states.

President Nixon knows that, when he speaks to the American people, the enemy at Hanoi is listening. What is being tested now is the capacity of governments of radically different rules to co-exist. To be specific, there is strong dissent in this country to the Nixon policy of withholding from publication the dates of withdrawal. It is evident that the Nixon strategy is to retain the advantage of playing poker with a secretive Communist government without stultifying his position by telegraphing his punches in advance.

Advantage Cited

Nixon and his advisers contend that there is an advantage in letting the enemy guess. Sometimes the resultant domestic anguish is exaggerated by fales assumptions of administration objectives and by efforts of the "loyal opposition" to promote doubts.

Nixon has said he will finally withdraw from Vietnam when (a) our prisoners of war are out of North Vietnam and (b) when South Vietnam shows the strength to care for itself.

Cynics assumed that the administration was hoping for a dramatic symbol of success in the war shortly before Election Day in November 1972, but already moves, however ineffective they may prove to be at first, have been made to bring the prisoner issue to a head. As a result of U.S. initiative, Sweden indicates that, if asked, it would house prisoners of both sides temporarily. If the prisoner issue should be resolved, then the second factor of South Vietnamese strength can be faced. This at best will be a matter of judgment, and no political figure in this country can remain viable who does not reflect American interests.

Economic Boon

Certainly none is so blind as not to see that it would be a boon economically to this country to wind down the war. If any reminder was needed, the recent weakness of the dollar in international markets and the attendant rise in the price of gold showed the handwriting on the wall.

The weak position of the United States in respect to international balance of payments is exaggerated by U.S. military establishments in various parts of the world. Vietnam is far from the only place. We still have troops in South Korea, and, despite Europe's recovery, some 26 years after the end of World War II, we are keeping expensive establishments in West Germany and elsewhere.

Since survival in co-existence with Communist police states is involved, the issue has facets other than financial. But, if strategy requires our continuing presence in Middle Europe, then it behooves the Allies to enlarge their share of the financial burden.

Likewise it is whistling in the dark to create the impression that only governmental exploits abroad have caused the balance of payments problem. Inflation and the unwarranted rise in U.S. labor costs have worsted our international competitive position in steel and other products, and have threatened our historic favorable visible balance of trade.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

3 Japanese Die While Climbing High Nepal Peak

Katmandu, Nepal (AP) — Three Japanese mountain climbers perished last Tuesday while trying to scale 24,958-foot Dhaulagiri 5, the Nepalese foreign ministry announced Sunday.

The ministry, quoting a message from the expedition, said Hidenobu Tezuka, 29, Kenichi Aoki, 24, and Toshibumi Yanagisawa, 26, died when they slipped because of physical exhaustion while climbing at an altitude of 23,000 feet.

The message did not say how far the men fell or whether the expedition's remaining five members would continue their attempt to conquer the peak through the previously untried south ridge.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
